

NORTHEAST LOUISIANA'S Major Center of Activity

Monroe and West Monroe, the Twin Cities of Ouachita parish, serve increasingly as the educational, cultural, sports, amusement and trading center of Northeast Louisiana. Facilities in all these fields have been greatly enlarged in recent years, until today the Twin Cities stand as one of the Mid-South's major centers of activity.

Go-Betweens Figure In Noel's Arrest

Negro-Killer Of 3 White Men Caught

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The surrender of a 28-year-old Negro, who killed three white men in a 24-hour shooting spree, was due to an intricate system of go-betweens, Holmes County Sheriff Richard F. Byrd said today.

Eddie Noel, object of one of the largest manhunts in recent Mississippi history, surrendered last night near Lexington, Miss., scene of the shootings, and was taken to the Hinds County jail in Jackson.

Byrd said Noel's surrender climaxed days of work between his office, the state highway patrol and the two go-betweens whom the sheriff declined to identify.

Byrd said he had a good line on Noel's activities during the three-week hunt, due to Negroes whom Noel contacted. The sheriff said the Negroes were interested in maintaining good race relationships and co-operated fully with law enforcement officers.

Byrd questioned the emotionless Noel through the early morning hours about his whereabouts during the three weeks that followed the shootings.

Byrd said he knew early yesterday that Noel would surrender last night. But he lived up to his part in the arrangements.

The sheriff said Noel still had his .22 rifle with him, the same rifle with which he killed a storekeeper, a deputy sheriff and a volunteer searcher. Byrd said Noel had about 175 rounds of ammunition with him.

Byrd said that Noel told him he lived off can food which he apparently had stolen. Noel did not use the rifle to hunt for food during the long search, the sheriff added.

Byrd said the go-betweens got word to Noel that he would be taken safely to jail in return for his giving up peacefully. The surrender proceedings went off smoothly, the sheriff said.

Formal charges will be made later today, Byrd said, although Noel has admitted all three killings.

The sheriff said the reason for bringing Noel to the mob-proof jail in Jackson was not because of mob violence.

Homes Will Be Visited In Big March Of Dimes

Every home in Ouachita parish which indicates that donations for the Mothers' March on Polio are ready will be visited between 7 and 8 p. m. Friday night, Mrs. Beth Breese, parish chairman, stated Thursday. The announcement was made today by Mrs. Breese, along with key workers and chairmen, made final plans for the climax of the month-long drive.

And to accentuate the drive to the fullest, sirens of the Monroe and West Monroe fire and police departments will sound out through the Twin Cities beginning sharply at the appointed hour. The groups will then add the more than 3,000 women who will swarm over the parish to aid in the battle against infantile paralysis.

Mrs. Breese pointed out that the fringe areas of the Twin Cities, which last year were not visited fully, will be carefully covered. Coming in for special plans are the following areas, visited last year only sporadically, near West Monroe, Arkansas road, Goodhope road, Whites Ferry road, Natchitoches road, Claiborne, Sunshine and Siegle additions, Brownville and Bawcomville. In the Monroe area the neighborhoods throughout Edgewater Gardens and Broadmore additions, as well as along highway 80 will be covered completely.

However, in the event any house is missed, persons may call the Mothers' March headquarters, telephone 3-9171, and standby workers will be ready to come by for the donations. Persons not contacted by shortly after 8 p. m. are urged to telephone the headquarters.

All contributions will be taken to the Mothers' March headquarters where it will be counted and later deposited. Workers from various clubs, as well as leaders in the March of Dimes drive will also be on hand to aid in the collection and tabulations of contributions.

Dulles Says Molotov Would Supersede UN

Administration To Act Quickly To Bar Depression, Ike Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today termed the nation "marvelously prosperous," predicted recovery this year from a "brief and self-correcting" business dip and pledged to use the government's vast powers to combat a depression if one should develop.

Republicans Veer From Bricker Plan

Lean Toward Proposal By Sen. George

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans leaned today toward an alternate proposal by Sen. George (D-Ohio) but Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) pushed on with his own measure to limit constitutional treaty powers.

Without giving a final rejection, Bricker turned aside as unsatisfactory to him in its present form a measure offered by George yesterday.

George's suggested compromise would (A) nullify any future treaties and international agreements that conflict with the constitution and (B) provide that executive agreements other than treaties could become internal law only by act of Congress.

This was offered as a substitute for Bricker's proposal which, in a clause opposed vigorously by President Eisenhower, says "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty."

Eisenhower contends this would give the states power to repudiate some treaties. Bricker says that is not true. George said his proposal would eliminate the effect of the "which" clause.

George, who will be 76 years old tomorrow and who has rounded out more than 30 years of Senate service, appeared to have come up with a suggestion that Eisenhower's Senate lieutenants might clutch as the basis for further efforts to compromise a fight that has split Republicans.

Senate debate on the Bricker proposal began yesterday before a packed gallery.

Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, indicated he believes some slight revisions might make it acceptable to Bricker. But he declined to forecast the administration's final attitude.

21 Put On Propaganda Show As They Head For Communism

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Twenty-one singing, chanting Americans and one Briton who renounced their homelands to stay with the Communists today rolled northward in flag-decked trucks toward a life behind the Bamboo Curtain.

And in Tokyo, the U.N. Command said officially that at least 9 of the 21 were accused as stool pigeons who betrayed fellow POWs to the Communists.

The former Allied soldiers, along with 325 South Koreans, carried Red "peace dove" banners as they marched from their barbed wire compound in Korea's bleak neutral zone.

They sang, cheered and shouted charges of imperialism and germ warfare at the Western world as they boarded big green trucks for the trip north.

Five Allied newsmen saw them go. An Indian escort took the five of us to the pro-Red North Camp for the last frenzied propaganda

Four Injured In Auto And Truck Crash Improving

Four persons injured in an automobile-truck collision in West Monroe were recovering Thursday at their residences, West Monroe police reported.

The injured are Mrs. Bernice Stanfield; her daughter, Carolyn; 6; James Stanfield, 17, and Bill Hancock, 17, all of West Monroe. Mrs. Stanfield, who reportedly suffered a broken arm and lacerations, and her daughter, who suffered lacerations, were treated at Monroe Charity Hospital following the accident but later released, police said.

Stanfield and Hancock both suffered minor injuries, requiring no hospitalization. According to police, the accident occurred Wednesday afternoon at the West Monroe foot of the new traffic bridge, when the Stanfield car collided with a West Monroe city water department truck. All four of the injured were in the Stanfield car.

A faulty traffic signal was blamed for the accident, police said.

School Program In Mississippi Runs Into Snag

Future Uncertain Now That Money Bill Held Up

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — An ambitious program to equalize white and Negro schools in Mississippi faced a questionable future today.

Its fate hangs in the Legislature on four financing bills, two already disapproved by the Senate Finance Committee and the most important one awaiting committee action today.

The program was approved by the Legislature in a special session last December, but the money bills were held over to the regular session which opened Jan. 5.

Until the Finance Committee reported on three of the bills yesterday, financial backing for the program seemed assured.

The committee decided unfavorably on two bills to increase from six to eight per cent the severance tax on oil and gas and approved a bill raising the cigarette tax from four to five cents a package. Waiting committee action is a bill to raise the state sales tax from two to three cents.

BERLIN (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles charged in the Big Four conference today that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov is trying to supersede the United Nations with a council of five powers including Red China. Dulles demanded for the third straight day that the conference get to the problem of Germany at once.

Dulles, opening the fourth day's meeting, tossed a blistering attack on Foreign Minister Chou En-lai of Communist China.

He asked: "Who is this Chou En-lai whose addition to our circle would make possible solution of all our problems?"

He described Chou as a leader of a regime which gained power through a bloody war, became an open aggressor in Korea, and even now continues to promote aggression in Indochina.

"Such is the man Mr. Molotov proposes would enable us to solve all the world's problems," the American diplomat scathingly declared.

Dulles claimed that in arguing here for a five-power meeting, Molotov has been playing on the hopes raised when the United Nations was formed in 1945 in order to justify transferring those hopes to a council of the five powers.

The fact is, Dulles continued, Molotov is trying to replace the United Nations with a council of five which he said would take over responsibility for running the world.

The Dulles argument hit hard at the five-power conference suggestion which all three Western ministers have already rejected. But the Western delegations are extremely sensitive to peace hopes, especially with respect to Indochina. They were clearly determined to explore all possibilities of a settlement in case Molotov has anything serious in mind.

Dulles, Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Bidault, lunched together at noon and apparently decided on their tactics to take a tough line on the five-power conference. At least that was the line being taken by Dulles, who sought to move Molotov on to a discussion of the German question.

Dulles told Molotov it was obvious the proposed five-power conference could not be a temporary one. He said it was "incredible" that the four here, plus Chou En-lai, would be able to solve political, military and economic problems with which the United Nations had grappled for nine years.

The tasks which Molotov outlined yesterday for the five-power meeting—ranging from atomic disarmament to Asian settlements—would compel it to become permanent, Dulles said.

Dulles then made his demand to move on in these words: "My feeling is that we have had an adequate first round exchange of views on this subject and that without forgetting what has been said we should now move on to an exchange of views regarding the problems relating to Germany and Austria."

Dulles said he had developed (Continued on Second Page)

A total of 1,528 cases were handled through the office of District Attorney Fred Fudickar, Jr., according to an annual report sent to the state attorney general's office. The report covers cases handled from January 1 through December 31 of last year.

The cases were in both Ouachita and Morehouse parishes. Broken into parish figures, Ouachita had a total of 1102 of which 980 brought convictions. Defendants in 33 of the cases were acquitted. 73 nolle prossed and 126 were pending as of December 31.

In Morehouse Parish, 271 of the 316 persons brought into court were convicted. Four others were acquitted and nine nolle prossed. Thirty-two cases are still pending.

Approximately 30 of the pending cases have been cleared through the forfeiture of bonds. For the most part, the acquittals, Fudickar said, were for non-support cases.

Sheriff To Return Burglary Suspect

Deputy Sheriff W. O. Causey left Monroe today for Charleston, Mo., where he will pick up a man wanted in Monroe for burglary of a Perryville store, Sheriff Bailey Grant stated Thursday.

Sheriff Grant identified the man as Clyde Bartlett, 29, who was apprehended in Missouri on information supplied by the local sheriff department.

Bartlett has signed a waiver of extradition and will be returned to Monroe for prosecution.

Pentagon Power Test Is Brewing Over Discharges

WASHINGTON (AP)—A test of power is on at the Pentagon to determine whether the authority of the defense secretary is supreme in the military establishment.

The handling of the cases of American soldiers who decided to stay with their Communist captors in Korea or of those who later changed their mind, it became apparent today, is involved in this behind-the-scenes situation.

But in earlier incidents, too, the issue of central control cropped up.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has publicly taken the responsibility for ordering the Army to discharge dishonorably the 21 Americans who have decided to stay with the Communists. Some Army legal experts hold that nothing in military law allows the issuance of dishonorable discharge orders without trial by court-martial. Wilson says he thinks he has the authority.

There was the related incident of the Army's sudden announcement of the arrest, on court-martial charges, of Cpl. Edward Dickenson, the Virginia soldier who reversed his original decision to stay with the Reds. There the issue was one of the Army's timing and the wording of its announcement.

Outside the Army, every high official, including President Eisenhower, was startled and disturbed by the announcement last Friday night. The Defense Department was reported to have asked both the Army and Marines to hold up on any action or announcement in prisoner of war cases until all efforts to win back the remaining 21 had been made—and not take any action at all before the following Tuesday.

Eisenhower said at his news conference yesterday he thought there must be something else in the Dickenson case other than his original decision to remain with the Reds. Dickenson is charged with having intercourse with the enemy and seeking to secure favorable treatment while he was an inmate of a Communist prison camp.

The President also said he was disturbed when he read newspaper reports of the Army's action and immediately called Wilson to be certain that justice was done.

Dickenson yesterday was given a medical clearance and transferred from the Army's Walter Reed hospital here, where he had been a resident, to Ft. Belvoir, Va., 15 miles away. The Army named Col. James Jewett Carnes to head the group which will make a pre-trial investigation.

Final Plans For L. S. U. Alumni Banquet Ready

Final plans have been made for the annual banquet of the Fifth district Louisiana State University Alumni Association, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. on February 2. The meeting is being sponsored by the Ouachita Parish chapter of the organization for members throughout the entire Fifth Congressional district.

Some 300 persons are expected to attend the meeting, with over 200 tickets already sold, according to C. D. Blacklock. The total will be held to approximately 300 because of the limited space, so all alumni desiring to attend are urged to purchase tickets this week. Selling tickets will be Blacklock, Rowland Brown, Judge Howell Heard, Mike John, Jr., Vernon Dunn, J. J. Joyce, and Walter Schubert.

The meeting will also be open to all ex-students whether they completed schooling at L. S. U. or not and to wives and husbands of the university's alumni members.

Slated to address the group will be Gov. Robert Kennon, Lt. Gov. C. E. "Cap" Barham, General Troy Middleton, president of L. S. U., F. B. Heard, athletic director, Cocks Gaynell Tinsley and T. K. McKnight, secretary of the student body.

Judge Hood of Lake Charles, president of the alumni association, will be in Monroe to attend the meeting. He will meet with officers and leaders in the local group for a short while during the afternoon and make a brief address following the banquet.

All talks with the exception of the principal speaker, General Middleton, will be very brief.

Also slated to be in Monroe for the meeting will be some of the outstanding football players, who will be interviewed over local radio and television stations prior to the banquet.

com D. Talley Jr. of Bogalusa, and Alvin R. Rubin of Baton Rouge. At 7 p. m. a cocktail party and buffet supper will be held at the Bayou Deslaur Country Club. Saturday sessions will again open at 10 a. m., with a panel discussion of the committee for a Constitutional Convention, with Judge George W. Hardy Jr., of the second circuit court of appeals, presiding.

Talks will also be given by John H. Tucker Jr. of Shreveport, Camille F. Gravel Jr. of Alexandria and Fred G. Hudson Jr. of Monroe.

The meeting is the third such to be held in Louisiana and, according to Kent Beards, local chairman, "an elaborate, instructive and interesting program has been planned for this meeting."

great admiration for Molotov's skill as a diplomat in the past and that Molotov had not lost his touch.

He said Molotov had pulled out of the hat rabbits for all of us. Dulles gave examples of Molotov's magic rabbits peace for Korea, peace for Indochina, an end of the atom race, a settlement of specific problems and a tremendous increase in economic prosperity.

He said Molotov promised these achievements would be made possible if only the Western powers would invite Red China's Chou to the conference table.

Such a parley, Molotov told them, could consider the "situation in Asia," an obvious reference to Indochina and Korea.

Diplomats closely associated with the three Western ministers said they were agreed Molotov's intentions must be explored, his purposes made clear for the world to see, and his genuine peace offers—if any—quickly taken up.

not ripe. Of his economic program, outlined in a 35,000-word message, Eisenhower said:

"It is not a legislative program of emergency measures, for the current situation clearly does not require one. Instead, it is a program for stimulating economic growth and minimizing any chance there may be of serious economic difficulty in the future."

He set this goal for the economy: "an increasing national income shared equitably among those who contribute to its growth, and achieved in dollars of stable buying power."

After a year in office, he reported national production at a record 367 billion dollars. "Employment is high, prices are steady, and wages and profits are generally satisfactory," he said. "But there can be no certainty that the last 1953 dip in business activity will not become a broad one, and deeper movement than 'minor adjustment' thus far recorded, he cautioned."

He described the contraction as mainly an inventory adjustment—a production slowdown intended to reduce the rate of accumulation of stocks, and continued: "Our economy is basically strong, . . . the current economic readjustment seems likely to be brief and self-correcting, but the situation must not be viewed with complacency."

"Unless the government is prepared and willing to use its vast powers to help maintain employment and purchasing power, even a minor readjustment may be converted into a spiraling contraction."

Then Eisenhower went on record for his administration: "The government will not hesitate to make greater use of monetary, debt management and credit policy, including liberalized use of federal insurance of private obligations, or to modify the tax structure, or to reduce taxes, or to expand on a large scale the construction of useful public works, or to take any other steps that may be necessary."

"The government must and will be ready to deal with any contingencies that may arise. An essential part of this preparedness under present circumstances is a higher federal debt limit."

"The need for constant vigilance and preparedness by government does not, however, justify constant stirring or meddling. Minor variations in activity are bound to occur in a free economy, or for that matter in any type of economy."

"The arsenal of stabilizing weapons will be drawn upon by the government boldly, but not more frequently than is required to maintain reasonable stability."

The report was the last of the three major messages which the President sends to each new session of Congress in January. The others are the State of the Union and budget messages.

The report was based on studies by the President's three-member Council of Economic Advisers—Arthur F. Burns, chairman, Neil H. Jacoby, and Walter W. Stewart.

English Teacher Meet Will Hear Dr. R. C. Pooley

Dr. Robert C. Pooley, author, lecturer, and educator of the University of Wisconsin, will be the guest speaker of the Louisiana Council of Teachers of English at their meeting, Saturday, January 30, at Hotel Bentley, Alexandria.

Dr. Pooley is a professor of English and Integrated Liberal Studies, University of Wisconsin, and serves on the committee on language and writing of the English curriculum commission. This commission of the National Council of Teachers of English has published its first volume, The English Language Arts in the Elementary School.

To the Louisiana Council and other interested teachers of English, Dr. Pooley will make three or four short addresses. Each of these will be followed by a brief discussion. He will speak on Reading for Learning, The Teaching of Imaginative Literature, The Teaching of Composition, and Teaching Usage and Grammar.

The program will begin with registration at 9 a. m. The morning session, to be held in the Venetian Room, Hotel Bentley, will be followed by a luncheon at 12 o'clock at the Bentley. Dr. Pooley's last talk and concluding remarks will be made after the luncheon. The meeting will end at 2 p. m.

Officers of the Louisiana Council of Teachers of English are: President, Miss Isabel Lund, Terrebonne High School, Houma, La.; vice-president, Mrs. Lavinia McNeely, Colfax High School, Colfax, La.; secretary, Miss Anna Mae Morgan, Elementary School, Baton Rouge, La.; treasurer, Mrs. LeFlore Lyon, Minden High School, Minden, La.

Negro Is Arrested On Theft Charge

Joe Harris, 29-year-old Negro, was arrested by city detectives at his residence at 208 South 24th Street Wednesday night on a warrant charging him with theft of merchandise.

Detective Chief Hugh Tolbert said Harris was arrested on suspicion of theft of a bottle of liquor from the Owl Street Bar at 2715 Owl Street on Jan. 12. Tolbert said Harris is alleged to have grabbed the whiskey from the store and run.

He was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Sam Messina, owner of the store, Tolbert said.

He explained that the wife of the deputy Noel killed lives in the Lexington jail and lodging. Noel there would be unreasonable. Noel touched off the largest manhunt in recent Mississippi history on Jan. 9, when he shot and killed 30-year-old country storekeeper Willie Raymond Dickard at the Coxburg community near Lexington. The shooting followed an argument in which Dickard ordered Noel from the store.

Officers who questioned witnesses noted Noel as saying he would "take four white men to hell with me."

Sheriff Byrd said Noel went to another country store and "bought out the supply of ammunition" for his single-shot .22 caliber rifle. Joe Evans, who sold him the supply, later joined the posse and was shot at with the cartridges he sold Noel.

The Holmes County sheriff and deputy Pat Malone, 65, caught up with Noel after two cars of armed volunteers blocked Noel's auto at an intersection. As Noel's car stopped, he fired at his pursuers and fled into the woods. Later they put Noel's wife in the beam of the car headlights and she begged him to come out.

Noel, crouched on a knoll overlooking the scene, opened fire again, killing Malone and scattering the rest uninjured.

Joe Stewart, 33-year-old telephone company employee, was killed on Jan. 10 when he and two other members of the big posse flushed Noel at his home. The other two were wounded seriously.

trial inquiry to determine whether Dickenson shall face court-martial. There was disposition in some defense quarters today to believe that the plan to announce the arrest of Dickenson Friday night was known in high Army quarters.

First reports were that there had been a slipup at some lower echelon and that the action was prematurely carried out.

Defense officials emphasized there was no question of the right of the Army to prefer the charges against Dickenson, that the issue was over the failure to advise top defense officials that the Army proposed to make the announcement prior to the time urged by the department.

Earlier incidents which caused annoyance in top defense quarters included publication of a story, attributed to a high Navy official saying that the atomic submarine Nautilus was only a test vehicle, not intended for combat use. Wilson denied this report and let it be known he wanted to find out who in the Navy was the source.

Before that there was unhappiness over the report issued by a commission appointed by the Army to recommend on Army reorganization. The report criticized the defense secretary for not taking the secretary of the Army into full confidence on important matters involving the Army.

from the first days of capture and active in all kinds of Red activity in the prison camps.

Twenty of the 21 were regular Army men. One was a draftee. Three were artillerymen, two were medical aidmen. There were two engineers and the rest were infantrymen.

Five are 21 years old and the oldest is 32. The average age is 23½. Nineteen are single, two married. Three are Negroes.

Ten had an average of two years in high school. One had 3½ years of college and another graduated from college. Two completed grammar school only and two didn't finish grammar school. One only completed the sixth grade.

Not a single one of the 21 had any recorded political activity prior to entering the Army. The Allied spokesman said 10 of the 21 came from low-income homes. Most of the others were from middle class families. One is the son of an Army officer. One of the 21 is an orphan who was adopted at the age of 11. Two came from broken homes.

Before entering the Army, five were restaurant workers, four were truck drivers, three were mechanics' helpers, one was a bakery employee, a service station attendant, sales clerk, machine operator, and welder. Four were never employed.

are "free men." Others refused to answer when asked where they would go.

Communist newsmen said special camps had been prepared for the men at Kaesong and that a gala welcome awaited them.

In interviews before leaving the compound, all of the men said emphatically that they believed American fliers dropped germs on North Korea.

Aaron Wilson of Urania, La., said he was sure the charges were true because "I saw the planes drop them."

"How could you tell they were germ bombs?" he was asked. "I saw the insects," he answered.

"What kinds of insects?" "I could not say what kind. Several kinds."

Richard Tenneson of Alben, Minn., told newsmen, "Today I am happier than I have ever been before in my life."

Tenneson's mother, Mrs. Portia Howe, flew to Tokyo last month in a vain effort to see him and persuade him to return home.

"I am going to China to further peace, further my general knowledge and political knowledge. Beyond that, I'm afraid it's none of your business."

Ike May Decide On Security Risk Breakdown Next Month

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—President Eisenhower probably will decide next month whether to yield to demands for a breakdown showing how many disloyalty cases were among 2,200 federal workers dropped as security risks since he took office.

A decision may come about the middle of February, an Eisenhower aide said today, when the Civil Service Commission reports to the National Security Council on operation of the administration program to weed such risks out of government jobs, Eisenhower heads the council.

This aide, who asked not to be named, said he would be greatly surprised if the President changes his repeatedly stated opinion that no breakdown is feasible.

Eisenhower made his latest statement along that line at his news conference yesterday.

A reporter noted that the President recently referred newsmen to Atty. Gen. Brownell when they asked about the possibility of getting the information. Controversy has been raging as to whether most of the discharged employees were actually suspected of subversion, or whether they were dismissed for such causes as excessive drinking, homosexuality or talking too much about secret matters.

The administration program which went into effect last May classifies as security risks persons deemed undesirable on any of these grounds.

Eisenhower was told Brownell suggested to reporters that they go to the Civil Service Commission for a breakdown, and that Commission Chairman Philip Young in turn had referred the question back to the White House and the security council.

Eisenhower replied he had forgotten, when he suggested going to Brownell, that the presidential order setting up the security program requires the Civil Service Commission to report to the security council twice a year.

The President said—as he had done previously—that he doubted whether any real breakdown into specific categories ever could be provided. But he added that he was going to discuss the matter with Young.

There have been demands in and out of Congress for a breakdown of the 2,200 by causes. Eisenhower announced that number of separations in his Jan. 7 State of the Union message.

On the basis of an earlier administration total of 1,456 separations, Rep. St. George (R-N.Y.) told the House Jan. 8 that not more than 10 per cent were "out-and-out Communists." Rep. Walter (D-Pa.) declared the same day that no more than seven of those ousted were Communists.

On the other hand, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has said 90 per cent of the 1,456 were fired on grounds of questionable loyalty or homosexuality.

Two Negro Airmen Hanged For Murder

By VICTOR GIVAN

AGANA, Guam, Jan. 28.—UP—Two U.S. Negro airmen found guilty of the brutal sex slaying five years ago of Ruth Farnsworth, a white nurse, were hanged Thursday on a barren airstrip eight miles from the scene of the crime.

Robert Burns, 35, of Spokane, Wash., and Herman Dennis Jr., 25, of Calvert, Tex., who never had admitted guilt in the shocking crime, went to the gallows still protesting their innocence.

Miss Farnsworth, "the prettiest girl on Guam," was raped and murdered Dec. 11, 1948. Burns and Dennis were found guilty early in 1949, but protracted legal proceedings—including two appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court—delayed their execution until Thursday.

A third Negro, Dennis' 32-year-old half-brother Calvin, also was sentenced to death. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by President Truman in 1951 on the ground that there was insufficient evidence of his participation in the actual assault.

President Eisenhower rejected the condemned men's last appeal last Dec. 10, and ordered the commanding general of the Far East Air Forces to proceed with the execution.

Both men climbed the 17 steps to the scaffold calmly, and each denied with his last words that he was guilty of the murder.

"You are just complying with an order, sir," Burns said to the officer in charge of the execution just before he was hanged. "You haven't solved the crime."

Dennis asked from the scaffold if there were any newspapermen present. When he was told there were, he said:

"Please put this in the papers for me. They are making a big mistake and they are not accomplishing anything by executing me. "Even if they find the guilty parties after my execution, I do not hold anything in my heart against them. I pray for forgiveness for them."

Miss Farnsworth, a 27-year-old civilian nurse from San Francisco, was engaged to S. Sgt. Sterling McGinnis, Glenn Falls, Ohio, at the time of her death.

APPRAISAL SOUGHT

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 28.—UP—State Rep. James C. Gardner said he will ask the local board of assessors to make an appraisal of the old Charity Hospital here, a "public service." Officials are puzzled over what to do with the old hospital building, unused since the opening of the Confederate Memorial Hospital here. A meeting was held Tuesday night with local and state officials present to work out the problem. The appraisal of the property was authorized at the meeting.

TEXAS CONGRESSMAN QUILTS

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Jan. 28.—UP—A second member of Texas' congressional delegation—Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi—has announced he will not run for re-election. Lyle, 43, is serving his fifth term. He said Wednesday he planned to return to the practice of law.

FARM GROUP DISAGREES

WACO, Jan. 28.—UP—The Texas Farm Bureau has announced it favors only part of a compromise reached last week on the problem of a pay raise for Texas teachers. President J. Walter Hammond said the FFB agreed the teachers should get the proposed $402 annual pay hike, but didn't think the formula of local contributions should be changed.

A total of 15,700 Texas children were enrolled in kindergartens at the time of the last census.

Adoption Agencies Besieged

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—UP—There are at least 10 couples registered with adoption agencies for each baby available. Ten times that many would like to adopt babies, but for various reasons have not completed requirements for final registration.

Even if every black market baby source were uncovered and all babies adopted through legal agencies, the supply of babies still would not equal the adoption demand.

This dilemma, which has developed in the United States in the last decade, has come in for increasing attention only recently from all quarters, including the federal government.

Wiping out black market baby adoptions was number three on her list of hoped-for accomplishments when Dr. Martha M. Elliot, head of the Children's Bureau in Washington, D.C., took over the job three years ago.

If all adoptions were handled through legal agencies, the Children's Bureau estimates that existing agencies would need "almost twice as much staff and money for services."

A federal adoption law to make rules and penalties uniform in all states has been talked of for some time, but officials in Washington indicate that problems vary too much in different states to make such a law practical.

The obvious conclusion is that black markets cannot be legislated out of existence until legal agencies for unwed mothers and for adoptions are expanded.

"The situation is dangerously tight in regards to space now," said the director of Inwood House, one of seven homes for unwed mothers in Manhattan. This home can take care of only 24 girls in the dormitory, plus a few more in foster homes.

"We're full all the time," the director said. "I admit we have shied away from publicity, which would be helpful to unwed expectant mothers, because we can't handle any more."

Adoption agencies are just as full and find themselves in the position of defending their cautious, usually slow, service to prospective parents.

"We are a social agency, not a baby mill," said Roberta Andrews of the Spence-Chapin Adoption Service. "Two years ago we could find a baby for a desirable couple in nine months to a year. Now we have such a backlog of parents that it takes much longer."

Some of the saddest cases are the children several years old who suddenly are available for adoption and can't find homes.

Six months begins the period of old age for an adoptive child. As eager as couples are to have children now, even to the point of paying several thousand dollars to a black market source for a baby they know little about. "Very few couples," one adoption official said, will take a child more than six months old.

The following building permits have been issued in Monroe by city building inspector S. H. Ayl:

Greater Monroe Homes, Inc., to erect a one-story frame dwelling at 1704 South 5th Street in the Ouachita Cotton Mills 2nd addition at a cost of $4950, by using day labor.

D. A. Yazell, to erect a one-story frame residence at 1213 South 7th street in the Ouachita Cotton Mill 2nd addition at a cost of $7500, by using day labor.

Turpin Lumber and Supply Co., to erect a one-story frame residence at 306 Garden Drive in the Turpin North Wood subdivision at a cost of $4950, to be built by the owner.

Leroy Coates, to erect a one-story frame dwelling at 311 Harn in the Turpin North Wood subdivision at a cost of $4950, to be built by Turpin Lumber and Supply Co.

Eugene Criswell, to erect a one-story frame residence at 503 Easton Place in the Greater Monroe Homes Addition No. three at a cost of $8500, to be built by day labor.

Ernest R. Evans, to erect a one-story frame dwelling at 1007 South 7th street in the Ouachita Cotton Mill 2nd addition at a cost of $4,950, to be built by day labor.

James C. Holland, to erect a porch addition to a one-story frame residence at 604 Adecock at a cost of $300, to be built by day labor.

Wood that has been charred on its outer surfaces often lasts much longer than wood that has not been so treated.

Martin To Seek Excise Tax Cuts On Most Items

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—UP—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) said Wednesday he "hopes" federal excise taxes on all items except liquor and tobacco can be cut to a maximum of 10 per cent this year.

He told reporters he does not expect such a recommendation from the administration. "But I hope the government's financial condition will be such that we can aid the high-priced excise tax situation."

Rep. Herman P. Eberharter (D-Pa.), a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means committee, said Martin's proposal was a "step in the right direction."

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), another member, has made a proposal similar to Martin's. Rep. Robert W. Kean (R-N.J.) said he thought the idea would be approved by congress. "If the Treasury doesn't object too strongly."

Individuals received a 10 per cent tax cut Jan. 1 when the excess profits tax on business also expired.

In addition, the House Ways and Means committee, working on a general overhaul of the tax structure, has approved more than $500 million in selective tax relief for individuals this year and about $40 million in tax relief for business. More such proposals are expected from the committee.

Martin indicated that he has no objection to President Eisenhower's proposal to extend current excise tax rates on such items as liquor, beer, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles, scheduled for automatic reduction April 1 under the present law.

Same Leopard—Same Spots The Big Four Conference

The "Big Four" conference of foreign ministers met in Berlin on Monday to discuss the future of the former German Reich, now the solidly anti-Communist German nation.

"Solidly anti-Communist?" you question, "how could that be so with the Communists holding nearly a third of the former Reich?" If a vote was taken today, it is highly probable that the Communists would be voted out. In any case, the Western diplomats casually sat at the conference table with the arrogant Molotov who represents not only a piratical, cruel, murdering government, but who came to the conference to demand that Red China be admitted to the "U. N." as a price for the Korean armistice.

Worse, he assaulted the Westerners with the news that unless they disbanded the European Defense Community, the Communists would set up one of their own. What they have right now makes anything the West has resemble a child playing with his toy soldiers but Mr. Molotov failed to bring this into the discussion.

The Russians realize that they must hold on to East Germany in case they decide to go to war in a more active manner. In that unfortunate eventuality, they would need the East German region as a springboard. It is no surprise that Molotov is demanding these things as a Leopard's spots seldom change and the Russians do not desire German unification. They never did and the Western diplomats are now sitting at a propaganda conference directed by the Communists.

Particularly susceptible are the French. Wily Molotov realizes that the French are not particularly in favor of German rearmament and are preying on these fears to attempt to induce the weak French to go along with these lines of thought. They also have friends at the conference in the form of the British who have long been in favor of permitting the Chinese criminals to sneak into the "U. N." That organization, already lost as a world peacemaker, would be completely ruined should this latest Russian idea prove successful.

The Molotov statement was especially curious in that it said the Russians would be willing to settle the Korean peace conference were the Red Chinese to be admitted to the "U. N." The world at large has long known that it was not the Red Chinese nor the Korean marionettes who were handling the peace talks at Panmunjom, but the Russians. Not only that, it was the Russians who started the Korean war to begin with.

On what grounds can the Russians possibly be allowed to remain themselves in the "U. N."? The Molotov statement is an admittance of Russian guilt and no Western diplomat should feel himself obligated to talk with Russians as a peaceful, non-war-like nation.

The Russians have no desire for peace. They have not had, do not presently have and will not ever have in the future and this newspaper is not making any predictions when it makes this statement. The laws of Soviet dialectical doctrine say specifically that the Marxist creed will and must be successful over the Earth. It has been stated specifically by every Communist alive who has ever held a major position in the World-wide Marxist movement, that the Communists can never remain peaceful, side by side with Capitalism.

The Communists, as this newspaper and others has so often stated, regard logic, not principle and honor as their guide to world affairs. Communist logic is cold, hard and brutal and regards every concession as a great victory. Therefore, they regarded the American concession to hold a big four conference as a victory to be exploited to the fullest extent.

The American, British and French diplomats appear not to realize that they are in a war of a most brutal type; that they do not yet represent the winning side and that the Russians honestly feel that they have the "upper hand" in that they are presently winning the war. The American people, seeing the new war, the peaceful industrial production, not hearing the shots of war and reading casualty lists, cannot conceive themselves to be at war. Nevertheless, they are and might as well realize it.

No one actually expected Molotov to agree to talk about agreeing on the German question. Many expected him to use the conference in order to drive a wedge between the free peoples of the world. To that end, he is working day and night with some success.

The leopard has not changed his spots. No student of Marxism expected him to and that certainly includes the Marxists themselves.

Trujillo Government Is Fortress Against Reds

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Jan. 28 — We Americans have a mental and political habit of peering down our noses at nations which operate under one-party governments, but I tell you the so-called dictatorship of Rafael Trujillo in this island fortress against communism is much better than ours in one particular. I am thinking just now of the filthy rackets which operate in the guise of labor unions in the United States. Trujillo simply wouldn't stand for any such oppression of his people and waste of precious man-years of human energy and the material production thereof. Our government not only permits all this and the extortion of billions of dollars in dues, fees and other graft, disguised as "welfare insurance," but takes its stand beside the racketeers and against the working people.

Sure, they have labor unions here, and if you pucker your nose at that in the supercilious way of the American "Democratic," let me ask you if any worse for a government to run the unions than for the unions to run the government? You remember, I hope, that Arthur H. Wickes, the lieutenant governor of New York who had called on Joe Fay in his Sing Sing cell, explained that he had to do this because the unions now constituted a government and realistic public officials had to do business with them. That was only a belated acknowledgment by the second-in-command of our largest state of a fact which I have been belaboring since about 1938. Unions are a governing power, public officials do placate and appease them and our people have absolutely no voice in the election of their officials or the writing of their constitutions.

Our Declaration of Independence says governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, but these evil institutions do not even pretend to consult their members on anything and their electoral systems are farcical even by Dominican standards. They govern not by consent of the governed.

Every time some gang of wharf-rats in New York decides to tie up our maritime commerce with a strike called by the fiat of some felonious bum with credentials from the labor relations board of our national government, all our people pay to it in loss of earnings or trade and these Caribbean islands suffer acutely and almost immediately because they live by sea-borne commerce with the United States. Trujillo just won't let any such bums call a strike. How does he handle such things, then?

Well, he just doesn't give union officials the power to call strikes. There was a flurry in the papers the other day about a strike of sugar workers in protest against squallid housing and bad hygiene at one of the big mills. But the strike didn't come off and anyway it had been inspired by the government itself in the first place for the dual purpose of applying a little squeeze to certain American operators and to endear itself further to the workers generally. I believe the working people of this country are overwhelmingly in favor of Trujillo and I suspect that if there is any dissidence it exists among the educated and intellectual class.

But Trujillo has said repeatedly that this republic is too poor to waste its manpower on unnecessary idleness imposed by racketeers or union politicians such as Reuther and Phil Murray with widening circles of suffering as non-production in one line causes stoppage in others.

You may think I am at loss for something to write about, discussing American union rackets from the Dominican Republic. But the more I see of the simplicity, directness and economy of this system, the plainer it is to me that our union movement has become cancer in our government. It will kill our republic if we don't cure it. It is a sub-government exactly as Wicks said, it is dictatorial and totalitarian in form and, worst of all, it has the government of the United States for its accomplice in crimes against the people and the very nation itself.

Trujillo's wage level is low but he is raising it as fast as he can and anyway these people have simpler needs than ours and hardly any of our expensive foibles such as boozing and gambling and "entertainment" and they are largely vegetarians. Trujillo blames our state department under Roosevelt and Truman for his inability to raise wages higher and build even more public works. They made it imperative to spend $4,000,000 in Brazil to buy war materials to defend himself against Communist aggression in the Caribbean.

Immunity Law Might Loosen Tongues of Balky Witnesses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (CQ)—Witnesses who defy Congressional probes by refusing to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination may have to contend with a new legal device designed to compel them to talk.

The Senate last year passed a bill under which a witness could be forced to testify, in return for complete protection against prosecution for anything he might disclose to questioning Congressmen. The clause did not act on the measure in 1953, but the House Judiciary Committee is expected to hold hearings this year.

At present a witness who says, "I refuse to answer the question on the grounds that it might tend to incriminate me" can safely keep his mouth shut so long as he has reasonable cause to feel that an honest answer might incriminate him.

The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution declares "no person... shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself." The courts have said this applies to witnesses before Congressional committees. Attempts to convict balky witnesses for contempt of Congress after they had pleaded possible self-incrimination repeatedly have been turned down by the courts.

But the Supreme Court has said that Congress could force a witness to testify if he were given "complete immunity" against prosecution.

Some Senators, including the late Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio), said they were afraid the Senate-passed bill might grant an "immunity bath"—an easy way for talkative witnesses to escape prosecution. Others expressed fears that Congress inadvertently might grant immunity to a witness against whom the Justice Department had built a strong criminal case.

As approved by the Senate last July 9, the bill specified that the Attorney General must be informed of a proposed grant of immunity to a witness at least one week before the Congressional committee voted on the proposal. If the Attorney General did not approve of the immunity grant, the committee could override him only by the House or Senate, by a yeas-and-nays vote.

"Okay, turn off the lights and I'll tell 'er roll."

"Any smoking in the balcony?"

"Turn the lights back on, somebody. The darned thing is stuck."

"The first part won't be much to look at, because we didn't know a thing about running the camera, but later on it gets pretty good, no fooling."

"Okay, I got it fixed. Lights off."

"This is Katie packing the car, the morning we left Florida for Seattle, and was she sure. Look at her face. I'm glad you can't read lips."

"That's the Suwannee River house there. We stopped at a roadside about a mile up the road and had the best chili I ever ate. Now watch. In a second or two and you'll see—turn the lights on again."

"That always happens right here. The rolls aren't spliced right. George — you remember George Betterman—well, he told us we'd always have this trouble unless we bought a splicer and spliced our own."

"Okay, put the lights out and let's go."

"Have you got that little jigger on top pushed down tight?"

"Yeah, but this big wheel doesn't seem to be coordinating with the little one. It worked all right this afternoon, didn't it, Kate, when we showed the stuff to the kids?"

"Honestly, it did. Went right through except for the break right here and one when I was taking a picture of a statue in Vicksburg."

"Well, I'll go ahead and show what can. If it acts up again we'll quit."

"Now that's not a bad shot, is it? See, we know more about it now. That's Timmy taking Cruise for a walk somewhere between Dallas and San Antonio."

"It isn't in Texas at all, silly. That's in New Mexico. Don't you remember, it was right after we stopped and went in those caves."

"I'll bet you a thousand dollars it was Texas."

"All right, have it your way. This is an oil refinery. There's about five minutes of it. I had the camera aimed out of the window and forgot to take my finger off the thingamajig."

"This is California. I don't know what part, but we spent the first night we were in California in the nicest motel I was ever in. Good food, too, in a coffee shop right across the street. Remember, Gunner?"

"Hold everything. Turn on the lights, somebody. Much obliged. You know, I can't understand this? It always works like a charm until company comes in."

"Well, we can't stop now. We've got to show everybody the pictures we took up in Oregon and Washington. It may sound like bragging but we have a picture of Mount Rainier that I'll bet we could sell to one of those camera magazines."

The Yalta Betrayal

By Felix Wittmer

EDITOR'S NOTE: The News-Star is printing in serial form, "The Yalta Betrayal" by Dr. Felix Wittmer. Dr. Wittmer, in his book, brings out facts concerning the Yalta episode which have never been brought to the public eye. For his efforts, his book has received few if any reviews and there has been a determined effort to keep it from the public. "The Yalta Betrayal" is a dramatic history of an American catastrophe.)

Haunting Hunches

The President had been feeling uneasy about the outcome of his world peace gamble long before the Crimea Conference was staged. Indications of the Soviet leaders' bad faith had been accumulating with frightening rapidity, when even left-winger Pearson had found it proper to enumerate the Kremlin's official "slaps" at us, there must have been something wrong with the Soviet attitude.

Is it possible that President Roosevelt had left Lieutenant Rigdon's background date untouched because he feared that the bare facts might weaken his determination once more, in one grand finale, to outdo himself as the genial and bountiful donor who could break any heart, and finally to clinch his long-frustrated pursuit of elusive Kremlin Joe, by a spectacular marriage symbolique de diplomatie?

What if Kremlin Joe, whom he had so devotedly served, was basically no better than a common prostitute in whose book the word "loyalty" merely exists as one of the tricks reserved for country yokels? What if he — and therefore America — should have to pay the price of folly which thousands of dupes before him, generation after generation, had paid? Was he, psychologically perhaps on a level with distinguished but romantic fools who, from Catullus to Toulouse-Lautrec, saw their loftiest dreams dragged through the mud because they treated the underworld in terms of honorable society? "I just have a hunch that Stalin doesn't want anything but security for his country, and I think that if I give him everything I possibly can and ask for nothing in return, noblesse oblige..." These words surely must have risen from Roosevelt's subconscious, again and again, to plague him.

Had Stalin ever obliged? When had he disclosed noblesse? The thought was maddening. He, Roosevelt, had gambled on the noblesse de coeur — the loftiness of heart — of the anti-individualist, anti-heart "Man of Steel." He had attempted to melt the coeur d'acier — the heart of steel — of the robber of Tiflis, the five-time convict of Siberia, the man who had coldly purged millions of Ukrainian peasants because they wanted to cultivate their land the way they pleased and bravely resisted collectivization of their farms. Stalin, the knave who had Bukharin, Tomsky, Rykov, Radek, Zinoviev, Kamenev, and most of his other "comrades" broken in prison cells so that they would testify against themselves and be cast on the trash heap of streamlined humanity... Stalin, the fiend who had ordered the "liquidation" of more than two million "deviations" of his own Communist party...

Fantastic thoughts must have weighed on the mind of the man who had set out to "handle" Kremlin Joe. Long before he went to Yalta, Roosevelt realized that Stalin might not work with him "for a world of democracy and peace." But if that was the case, if Stalin "did not come in" (to use the words Roosevelt had spoken to the White House physician), then the "bet" was lost, and every move he had made on the global chess-board was false, and his entire political strategy, from A to Z, had been based on a monstrous hoax. "Queer thing about hunches... Sometimes they are right, and sometimes they are awful."

New York John Cameron Swayze

"Whiskers and Goozle"

NEW YORK: I'm a solid booster for the latest project of a business consultant, L. E. Frailey of Columbus, Ohio who has launched a campaign to take out of business letter writing what he calls the "whiskers and goozle." A "goozle" is a man who never uses a short word if a long one will do. And "whiskers" are the stilted phrases so frequently sprinkled in business communications.

I think Mr. Frailey is a pioneer on the right track. Full speed ahead to him.

New York's Legal Aid Society is one of the bulwarks thrown up by the community to help those who need skilled legal advice but can't afford it. Scarcely a reporter lives who, during his police court days, has not heard of heart-breaking injustices, often caused by the defendant's ignorance of his rights and lack of funds. The society has 40 full-time staff attorneys and last year handled 55,000 cases.

Greatest single problem is the domestic wrangle and the staff knows that a rainy week end will up the number of Monday cases. The reason is simple. Families with small incomes, cooped in small apartments and "house-bound" by weather get irritable and tempers fly.

Appreciation for the society's efforts sometimes crops out in unexpected places. Not long ago a staffer tried to get a fund-raising poster and was turned down by a clerk who explained it was against store policy. She left it, anyhow. Next day came a letter from the owner advising that the poster was in place. Years before his present success, he had arrived almost penniless in New York. An employment agency had cheated him out of what was left of his money — and the society had helped him recover it.

Much as does a law firm, the society also serves as a legal training ground for young attorneys. Among the notable instances is that of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, who apprenticed there.

Anent legal matters, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes had a ready explanation for writing his Supreme Court decisions while standing at a specially-built high desk in his Washington home. He said it helped him keep his opinions short.

It happened again last month, one of those wrong-way surprise Christmas trips. A Canadian couple was involved, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Crump. Mrs. Crump and their three children had been visiting her parents in England. They start home by liner ahead of schedule to be with Mr. Crump at the Yuletide. And Mr. Crump decided cross your fingers."

"See how much better the lighting is now? At first we didn't pay any attention to the lights. That's some flowers in somebody's front yard in Astoria."

"That's not Astoria. Bill and Marge Leseman live in Astoria."

"All right, it's not Astoria."

"There. Look. That's Mount Rainier. And that's Gunner putting chains on the car—was he cussing?"

"Confound it. Turn on the lights, somebody."

"This is, as if you didn't know, a fragment of conversation remembered while I looked at some home movies last night."

A statistician of my acquaintance has figured out a startling conclusion as regards gossip. Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis

Van Fleet's Suggestions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — General James A. Van Fleet, one of our most skilled military leaders and probably the most experienced American general in battling Communists in the field, offers a new proposal which has much merit as a means of preventing red military excursions.

Basically, his plan is to devote our foreign aid energies to supplying and training native forces in countries bordering the communist periphery. On its face, it would save vast sums of money and huge numbers of men. For example, he says 25 South Korean divisions can be trained, equipped and maintained for the same amount it costs us to keep one American division in Korea.

Actually, the plan is merely an extension of that which he led so successfully in Greece in 1948-49-50, when Van Fleet and a small group of American officers trained Greeks to use American equipment and showed them how to drive out communist forces which had come within a hair's breadth of conquering Greece.

The timing of his proposal, put forth publicly in the current issue of Reader's Digest magazine, is particularly interesting because of current efforts of "liberals" and left-wingers to persuade us that we should pull completely out of the Near and Far East.

Much of their fire is being centered on talks with Pakistan looking toward possible allocation of some military aid to that anti-communist center. They declaim loudly that such a move would be an insufferable affront to their hero, India's Moscow-toadying Nehru, which might even lead to open warfare in the subcontinent.

Poppycock.

A map shows Pakistan to be a two-headed, divided nation lying between India and her two friends, Russia and Red China. It is inhabited by some 80 million ardent Moslems who cherish their independence and detest communism for, among other reasons, its anti-religious tenets. Faced by India's 560 million Moslem-hating Hindus to the south, Pakistan's desire to build herself up defensively is understandable.

Assuming the validity of the Administration's warning that communist military aggression anywhere will be met by armed retaliation from the free world, we would be committed to come to Pakistan's aid in the entirely conceivable eventuality of a red move against her.

The cost to us would be infinitely cheaper, in men as well as in money, if we were to spend a few million dollars now to help build a native Pakistan defense force rather than wait and suddenly be faced with an invasion, then try to save her by sending men and materials.

The $25 million of military aid contemplated in the current discussions would be only a fraction of what the alternative would cost us.

Similar self-help military programs in other communist-adjacent countries would benefit us by dotting red borders with a ring of peaceful but prepared nations capable of inflicting sore damage on any attacking force—the Philippines, Indonesia, Malaya, Thailand, Burma, Iran, Turkey, Greece.

Van Fleet, having his estimates on actual experience in Greece and Korea, says we could get an average of 25 highly trained, fully equipped native divisions under such a program for the price of a single American division. Additionally, the natives would be defending their own homelands—a psychological factor of tremendous importance.

The huge cost differential, of course, arises from the equally vast differences in living standards in the United States and the Near and Far East.

Hollywood Optimistic, Says Television Honeymoon Over

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Optimism is falling like gentle rain on Hollywood. The movie business hasn't looked so good in years.

After five years of gloom, the film industry is enjoying good times and is looking forward to better ones. The reason is simple enough: you, the ticket buyers, are going to the movies more often.

The "lost audience" has been found again. You and your neighbors don't stare at the TV set as much as you used to.

"The honeymoon is over," Hal Roach, first big producer to enter TV films, told the radio-TV convention last week. "People won't stay home and watch now because a program is free."

You are rediscovering that movies can provide exciting entertainment. Hollywood is helping by providing bigger pictures. They are not necessarily better. The accent is on bigness—to give you something you can't get on the small screen at home.

Last year saw more big-money films than any year in movie history. Variety listed 10 films earning five million or more in this country and Canada. Leader was "The Robe," which may overtake the "Gone With the Wind" record of 26 million.

"Only 18 months ago the film biz was coming in on a prayer," reported Variety. "Now it has the biggest wings since 1946." It observed that films were the only American industry to suffer a depression since World War II.

Hollywood labor also reflects the optimism. "I think we reached the bottom last year," said a Screen Actors Guild official. "Employment for actors appears to be picking up."

Work for writers is perhaps most significant. Scripts must come before shooting. After a "rugged lean" 1953, Screen Writers Guild head F. Hugh Herbert sees "abundant signs the tide is turning" for the word makers.

Even Wall Street has indicated the trend. Motion picture shares showed the biggest percentage gain of any industry in 1953. The only companies to show losses were RKO and Paramount, which dipped one and a fraction points.

Every Hollywood Studio appears to be in an upswing.

2 Famed Gospel Singing Groups To Appear Here

Two of the nation's most famous gospel singing groups will appear in a special performance tonight at the Neville High School auditorium under the sponsorship of the Twin-City Singing Convention.

The two famous groups to be featured on the program are the Blackwoods and the Statesmen. The Blackwoods, who come from Memphis, will feature Jackie Marshall at the piano. During the past

British To Place 4-Jet Bombers In Service This Year

LONDON, Jan. 28.—UP—Defense Minister Earl Alexander announced Wednesday that Britain will put its first big four-jet bomber planes into service this year. They would be capable of dropping bombs on the Russian heartland.

The defense minister also announced that Britain is embarked on a long-haul rearmament program, corresponding to President Eisenhower's defense program for the United States.

Alexander, a commander of World War II fame, listed a series of super-modern British defense weapons now coming off production lines to bolster western defense on the flat, vulnerable plains of Europe and carry retaliation from Britain to the enemy.

N. B. JOHNSON TO SPEAK
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 28.—UP—Oklahoma Supreme Court Justice N. B. Johnson who also is president of the Oklahoma Inter-Tribal Council, will report to a mass meeting of Indians on a proposed merger of the Anadarko and Muskogean Indian agencies in Oklahoma City Tuesday.

20 years the group has appeared at concerts and song fests throughout the south.

The Statesmen, who hail from Atlanta, Ga., are equally well-known in the south and will star Denver Crumpler, who is billed as "the world's highest tenor." Crumpler was originally with the Rangers.

NOT SURE IT'S HER SON—Mrs. Brady Skinner of Akron, O., studies AP Wirephoto Wednesday of her son, ex-Cpl. Lowell Skinner, 22, in group with other POWs refusing to come home from Korea. She and her husband say there is resemblance, but they are not convinced it is their son. They want positive identification by Army or face to face look.

Ike Compares His Regime To New, Fair Deals Of Demos

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—UP—President Eisenhower's nutshell statement of the basic philosophy governing his administration's objectives and relationship with the people sent reporters to the files for Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous definition of his New Deal.

Mrs. Eisenhower was invited at his news conference Wednesday to comment on statements that his legislative program was a more New Deal extension.

Take a look at the budget, the President counseled.

How would you distinguish between yours and a New or Fair Deal budget? he was asked. Mr. Eisenhower replied it was a matter of direction. The Democratic budgets were going further and further into debt. The new Eisenhower budget sought to reduce spending and go the other way.

The President did not suggest that all things done by the preceding Democratic administrations were bad, but he saw great difference between their objectives and his own. He summed it up for direct quotation:

"When it comes down to dealing with the relationship between the human in this country and his government, the people in this administration believe in being what I think we would normally call liberal, and when we deal with the economic affairs of this country, we believe in being conservative."

The President acknowledged that so brief a summation easily could be ripped apart, but he said he would stand on it although words such as liberal, progressive, and, presumably, conservative had acquired confused meanings.

What his administration sought, he explained, was to maintain a strictly constitutional government and, within those limits, to make certain that individuals realize that the government is a friend, in no way an enemy.

Back there in August, 1931, in Green Bay, Wis., FDR said an unnamed congressman had provided his favorite definition of the New Deal. It ran like this:

"The New Deal is an old deal—as old as the earliest aspirations of humanity for liberty and justice and the good life. It voices the deathless cry of good men and good women for the opportunity to live and work in freedom, the right to be secure in their homes and in the fruits of their labor, the power to protect themselves against the ruthless and cunning."

It recognizes that man is indeed his brother's keeper, insists that the laborer is worthy of his hire, demands that justice shall rule the mighty as well as the weak.

"It seeks to cement our society, rich and poor, manual worker and brain worker, into a voluntary brotherhood of freemen, striving together for the common good of all."

The author was discovered to be Rep. and later Sen. Edward Burke, a Nebraska Democrat, who a few years later became one of FDR's most bitter political enemies.

'Pigeon' Game Nets $1,300 For Two Con Men
Monroe police reported that Emmett Moses, Negro, Rt. 2, Farmerville, lost $1,300 to a pigeon dropping artist yesterday.

Tolbert said Moses was approached yesterday morning by another Negro, who said he found a large sum of money and offered to share it with Moses. A third Negro, apparently an "innocent bystander," verified the second Negro's story.

However, the man who "found" the money was unable to divide it at that time, and asked Moses to put up some money to show his trust. The Farmerville man had $300 in his possession, but was persuaded by the other Negro to withdraw an additional $1,000 from the bank.

The Negro who "found" the money left with Moses' $1,300 about 11:30 a.m. "He has been in the should split the money" with Moses. When he failed to return by 1:25 p.m., Moses called police.

Both confidence men were described by Moses as light complexioned. One was estimated to be between 35 and 50 years old, six feet tall, weighing 180 to 190 pounds and wearing a brown suit. The other man was described as five feet five inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, and wearing a gray suit.

TAX OFFICIAL ELECTED
BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 28.—UP—John P. Boyle, assistant collector of revenue for Louisiana, was elected chairman of the board of the Federation of Tax Administrators at a meeting held recently in Chicago. Revenue Collector Rufus W. Fontenot disclosed Thursday. Boyle has been a member of the board for the past 10 years and has taken an active part in the federation. Fontenot said the program and approved the program for the new year at the Chicago meeting.

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 28.—UP—Mildred Robinson, Laborite member of Parliament from Blyth, England, will visit here Friday for a conference with commerce and industry officials and a tour of the Esso Standard Oil refinery. Robinson's visit is under the auspices of the U.S. State Department's exchange program. He will be accompanied here by his wife.

Enrollment At Northeast Sets First Day Record

Spring enrollment at Northeast State opened a new chapter in the history of the institution Wednesday, the opening of registration, brought a new high in first-day enrollment figures.

Reaching the 450 mark at the initial stage indicated to college officials that the second semester total would surpass that of former spring terms.

Enrollment will continue today. All students who are entering Northeast for the first time are requested to bring their transcripts of credits and veterans should have their certificates of eligibility. Meeting these requirements will facilitate enrollment, the registrar announced.

Registration for special classes offered this spring is scheduled Saturday from 8 a.m. until 12 noon. These classes, which meet in the late afternoon or Saturday morning, will have their first class work during the week of February 1.

Special studies are open to persons who are unable to schedule them during the regular day program. Interests in the courses has consistently been shown by industrial plants of this area, nurses, and others who wish to improve their professional status or simply satisfy a desire for knowledge in a specific field.

The list of special studies includes a variety in such areas of interest as: education, English, science, social science, library science, music, speech and art.

HOW TO COOK EGGS

A pinch of cornstarch and one of powdered sugar added to the yolk of the egg before it is beaten will keep an omelet from collapsing. To keep yolks of hard-cooked eggs bright, clear and light around the edges, avoid overcooking and use a simmering temperature. The secret of all egg cookery is low temperature. Egg yolks will keep for several days in your refrigerator if you cover them with cold water. To divide an egg evenly when the recipe calls for only one-half egg, beat the whole egg. Two tablespoons of the mixture is equivalent to one-half egg.

Look over all your electric cords. Are there any that are frayed? Then repair at once! A frayed cord is not safe.

Commissioner Huckaby Is Speaker At Garden Club

The Camellia Garden Club held its January meeting in the home of Mrs. F. C. Patterson with Mrs. Earl Vigg co-hostess.

Mrs. G. L. Thompson led the discussion on landscaping Plum street school and it was agreed to launch the project immediately.

Mr. Wayne Huckaby, guest speaker, talked on civic beautification and discussed the various problems in keeping the city clean, means of beautifying the city and the elimination of those things which detract from its beauty.

City engineer, Mr. L. T. Harper, was also present and answered a number of questions for the club members.

New members welcomed to the club were Mrs. R. A. Morrow and Miss Mittle Ross.

The hostesses served refreshments to: Mr. Huckaby, Mr. Harper, Mrs. W. E. Burke, Mrs. W. A. Cornette, Mrs. J. R. Freeman, Mrs. L. T. Harper, Mrs. Adams Causey, Mrs. Eugene Holdsworth, Mrs. T. L. Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: We are two young men, college educated, who are having difficulty meeting intelligent young women. The women we meet do not care to discuss anything that calls for an opinion or that might express their individualities. They are as much alike as peas in a pod. We have searched in churches, libraries and high-class bars but find only husband-hunters who successfully veil whatever intelligence they might possess and think that physical attractiveness alone will do the trick. Is there any process or method by which men and women who think intelligently can find desirable companions or must we spend the better part of our lives searching and wasting time in fruitless affairs? — Dubious Duo.

Such a sad story, I weep for both of you! If girls of today are putting an accent on their physical charms rather than their intelligence to interest men it is because you men won't give a girl a tumble unless she resembles Marilyn Monroe. A girl of intelligence frightens the average man so girls make like dumb bunnies to give our hero the feeling that he is a pretty smart pumpkin. Since you boys set yourselves up to be different and prefer a Plain Jane with a brain instead of a glamor girl without one, what's the matter with all the college women with whom you went to school? If you attended a men's college, surely you dated sisters of your school mates or girls from a nearby college? How do you think all the business executives or college professors found suitable wives? Just keep looking in the right places, my friends, and you will find girls who meet your requirements... if you really want to find them!

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and will be graduated from high school soon. A few months ago, a boy I had been dating four months said he would take me to the prom. Since our last date, a month ago, he telephoned several times but I was never at home when he called. He probably figured I had found someone else and soon gave up calling me. Now I realize I love him and do not want to go to the prom with anyone else. Since the date is only a month away do you think it would be all right for me to phone him and ask him if he still cares to take me? — Dummy

How come you let a boy call you several times without returning one of the calls? He has every right to believe you were not interested in him or that you had someone else. And that is exactly what I think. Now you need a date for the prom and you think you can use him! After ignoring his calls and him for a month, I do not think you have any right to expect him to go to all the expense a prom entails. You can't call him, now.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and going out with a girl who will soon be 18; there are five months difference in our ages. I like her very much and would do anything for her (almost). She likes me, too, (so she says!). Three weeks ago, she received a letter from a sailor and intended answering it until I told her she should not or I would give her all of her time to write to him. She said she would not write him but I cannot be sure. How can I find out? — K. C. M.

You can't. And you had no right to tell her not to write to him. You are not engaged. You don't own her. At her age she has every right to date and to write as many boys as she pleases until she finds one she loves enough to ignore the others. Furthermore, the girl is older than you emotionally and you probably won't last with her, anyway. So unless her and try dating other, and younger, girls yourself.

Confidentially — Teresa K.: You might as well put down the torch you carry for him; things will never work out between you. Not unless you are prepared to wait at least four or five years until he matures and you take the chance that he does not marry another girl. He has no respect for you, even if he was the one who caused your downfall. That is a difficult obstacle to hurdle.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of News-Star.)

Mrs. Eggleston Plans Workshop For St Paul's

Mrs. Louise Eggleston of the Ghent Methodist Church of Norfolk, Va., will speak at St. Paul's Methodist Church here on Friday and Saturday. The sessions will begin on Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the new church located on Lexington and Oreil.

On Saturday Mrs. Eggleston will conduct a workshop in developing spiritual techniques beginning at 10 a.m. and lasting until 2:00 p.m. Those attending this session are requested to bring sandwiches for lunch. Sunday morning Mrs. Eggleston will teach the Couples' Class of the church school at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Eggleston is a member of the Virginia Council of Church Women and is state chairman of the spiritual life committee of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She has been active in the development of the nationwide establishment of prayer groups. She is the author of several books distributed through the Methodist Church. All meetings are open to both young people and adults.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By SUE SHARMAN

Merrily, and without a cloud in the theatrical horizon, "Be Your Age" moves right along to an auspicious opening on Thursday, February 4, and this is based on the plaudits of the people who have seen it in rehearsal.

It's a good play with an excellent cast and teamed with Feuerstein's direction, it makes an unbeatable combination.

Everything goes so well, let's not draw the usual line but get right down to the business of keeping up with the people who are behind the scenes in Little Theatre... The unbeatable combination of former president Ted Landin and board member Rus Kettering will set up the lighting for this production... Understand Velma Kettering will hold down the same position she has occupied on the last two plays. It's a pleasant voice you'll hear when calling for reservations for "Be Your Age". Jimmy Durante coined a famous saying that pops up now and again, at least long enough to keep it famous. In the words of the inimitable Durante "Everybody wants to get into de act." Martha Church of New Orleans, who is visiting Joanne Gennung of the cast, got into the act this week by reading lines for someone who couldn't be there because they were being a part of the Neville variety show last night... Genolloyd Williams endeavored herself to the cast of "Be Your Age" by appearing Wednesday night with some very delicious homemade fudge for the entire troupe... Dr. Ringo has finally put in an appearance after a long and notable absence (actually he has only missed the last two plays). It's awful nice to have him back and around the 'ole familiar haunts and spells just one thing, he hasn't gotten over the spell of Little Theatre... Busy and active board member of Little Theatre Mrs. Frances McHenry who has been enjoying a visit in her home with her three grandchildren for the past two months, will fly to Atlanta, Ga. on Friday to see her daughter, Mrs. Grant Thomas and the children change planes in Atlanta for home. Frances will be back in Monroe, comes night fall of the same day... Visitors to the rehearsals of "Be Your Age" this week included such Little Theatre regulars as Bert Rold, Billie Podd, K. D. Hayes, Barbara Sammons, Frances McHenry, Myrtle Carter, Ted Landin, and Velma Kettering.

Little Theatre's former board member and highly esteemed patron Anna Gray Noe leaves today with Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher by the airways for Charleston, S. C., where they will enjoy a garden tour before Mrs. Noe joins a cousin for a motor tour through Florida.

LITTLE HEARE SKECH PALMER JARRELL, JR.... who makes his Little Theatre debut next week in the role of Bob Foley for "Be Your Age." Is a very talented native of the Twin Cities on the Ouachita and he is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Jarrell.

He attended Neville during the 7th and 8th grades and spent 9, 10 and 11 at Baylor Military School in Chattanooga, Tenn. His extracurricular activities at Baylor included letterman on the football team, dramatics, track, soloist with the Glee Club, Fine Arts Club and the Christian Council.

Palmer is now a senior at Neville High where he has lettered in football and is a member of the Future Business Leaders of America. Simultaneous with his rehearsals for the current Little Theatre production, he also appeared last night on Neville stage as the district attorney in "Lizzie Borden." He has been on stage in school productions for "A Case of Spring Time" and last year it was "Arsenic and Old Lace" at Baylor.

He is a well known baritone singer and has sung at many church and club meetings. He leans toward semi-classical music in the Howard Keel vein. He appeared in the chorus of "Il Travatore" in Shreveport, produced by the Shreveport Civic Opera Association, in the fall of '53. He was also a member of the All-State Chorus at Southwestern Institute at Lafayette last fall.

After graduation next spring, Palmer plans to attend Westminster Choir College at Princeton, N. J. to study for a musical career in voice. Only last summer he chose to return to Chattanooga, where he was privileged to study voice under Jack DeLeon from the Metropolitan Opera School, rather than vacation in Cuba.

He is also very proud of his sister Ann, 14, who is a talented artist and paints in oils, water colors and pastels.

He is survived by his mother,

MOTHERS' MARCH AREA CAPTAINS—Mrs. T. J. Woody, Mrs. Dockery and Mrs. G. M. Mott are shown as they discussed plans for the Mothers' March on Polio, slated to be held Friday night. The Mothers' March will be the climax to a month-long fund campaign. (Staff photo by John Fogleman.)

Daughters Of Cross Here To Observe Anniversary

January 29 is Founder's Day in the calendar of the Daughters of the Cross, teaching sisters of St. Matthew's School. In the church, it is the feast day of Saint Francis de Sales, Bishop of Geneva, who governed the Swiss diocese until his death in 1622.

Several years previous to his demise, Francis de Sales had given to Madame de Villeneuve of Paris, the wealthy widow of Lord Marcel de Villeneuve, a set of rules and constitutions, with the request that she establish a congregation of unclerical sisters for the education of youth. Until this time there was no such institute of women in the church. The document given by the bishop reflected the same rules as those which he had written for the visitation of the Sisters of the Holy Family.

It was not until the year 1640, over twenty years after the death of Francis de Sales, that Madame de Villeneuve saw the fruition of the unique plan. Then, with the full approval of the archbishop of Paris, the Most Rev. Jean Francis de Gondi, the foundress, with six saintly young women, organized under the title of the Daughters of the Cross, opened the first free school in the city of Paris. From this thriving nucleus spread branch houses and schools throughout the continent and England.

In the fall of 1853 a band of ten Daughters of the Cross under the leadership of Mother Mary Hyacinth left their native France and came to Louisiana at the request of the Most Reverend Bishop Auguste Marie Martin of the diocese of Natchitoches. They settled in the small town of Hydropolis in Avoyelles Parish near Marksville, where today they have a flourishing school known as Presentation Convent.

The labors of the Daughters of the Cross during the past 100 years in Louisiana have brought them into different sections of the state. They conduct three schools in Shreveport, one of which is their motherhouse, St. Vincent's. Other locations are in Monroe, Lake Providence and Moreauville.

Their present superior - general of the American Foundation is Mother Elizabeth. Her assistant is Sister Clarissa. Council members include Sister Eugenia, Sister Bernardine and Sister Philomena, who is superior and elementary principal of the local school here at St. Matthew's.

For administrative reasons the American Institute of the Daughters of the Cross is independent of the Parish Generalate. The Sisters will observe their feast day this coming Friday with the usual spiritual features of Holy Mass and Communion and the close of their annual novena to their Father Founder.

Mrs. Ruby Werner; one daughter, Diane Entrican, two grandmothers, Mrs. Ethel Scott and Mrs. Ida Entrican; eight aunts, Mrs. Thelma Cheek, Mrs. Homer Mott, Mrs. Dennis Chappel, Mrs. L. I. Hatten, all of West Monroe; Mrs. H. N. Carr, of California, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. C. C. Calender and Mrs. Nellis Smith, all of Brookhaven, Miss.; four uncles, J. M. and C. J. Entrican, both of Monroe; L. L. and S. O. Entrican, of Brookhaven.

1st Methodists Covered Dish Meal Set For Friday

Plans for the church and school attendance crusade at the First Methodist Church will be made at a covered dish supper Friday evening in the social room of the church, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

This is a part of the "Give God A Chance Now" program being carried forward throughout the nation. O. L. Cloyd is chairman of the commission on membership and evangelism, E. C. Dansby, vice-chairman, and Mrs. A. F. Parker, secretary. Approximately sixty persons are expected to work out the plans for membership zones over the Twin Cities, and for enlisting all of the members in regular church attendance during the period from now until Easter Sunday.

Catholic Daughters To Meet In Cafeteria

The Catholic Daughters of America will meet for an anniversary dinner in the St. Matthew's school cafeteria Sunday at 11 a.m. All members are urged to attend and to enjoy a fine dinner and good companionship.

Accidents killed about 94,000 Americans in 1953.

Russell Long In Statement On Bricker Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (Special)—Senator Russell Long issued the following statement on the Bricker amendment today in Washington:

"I favor additional safeguards to prevent abuse of the treaty-making power. The Constitution should be amended to include a clear declaration that no treaty can override the Constitution or deprive American citizen of rights secured to them in the Bill of Rights.

"Unfortunately, the Bricker proposal goes beyond that point to such an extent that President Eisenhower tells us that the proposals 'would make it impossible for us to deal effectively with friendly nations for our mutual defense and common interest.

"As written, the resolution is extremely involved. Even law school deans cannot agree upon the meaning of it. No one can foresee all of its possible effects and ramifications. Therefore, I do not expect to vote for it in its present form.

"The debate on the floor of the Senate may enable senators to reach agreement on this subject. It is my hope that we can work out a proposal which will properly carry out the oft-stated purpose of the sponsors of the resolution while avoiding the dangers feared by the president."

Shreveport To Be Host To Oil Well Men

A. H. Crawford of Crawford Drilling Company, chairman of the Ark-La-Tex Chapter of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors, has called a meeting of all members and associate members on Wednesday, February 3 at 6:30 p.m. in the Bamboo Room of the Petroleum Club, Shreveport.

This will be a panel type program and oil operators will participate in discussions of mutual problems. Some very interesting questions will be aired and a 100 per cent turnout is expected. Those taking part are as follows: N. H. Whelless, Jr., Shreveport; Harry Pistole, Tyler; Mike Hazel, Dallas; Chris Zeppa, Tyler; William Burroughs, Shreveport.

Negro Woman Bitten By Unregistered Dog

Janie Green, Negro, of 3802 Bailey street (rear) reported to police Wednesday night she was bitten by a stray dog while walking in the 300 block of Powell avenue, according to officers Thursday. The Green woman said the dog had no collar and, according to residents of the block, was a stray. Police said they advised the woman to call the health department.

No Violation Police Rule

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Barbara Leonard drove into a store front here, smashing the plate glass window.

But she won't be bothered with a reckless driving charge. Barbara is only 19.

Police reported the mother, Mrs. Ovide R. Leonard, left the child in their car last night as she stepped into the store to shop.

Keys were in the ignition, the emergency brake off. Barbara began to fiddle with the key and gear.

The startled mother and store clerks looked up to see the convertible come into the place.

No one was hurt, the car was scratched, the store had $400 in damages, police said.

Cleaning Plant Is Damaged By Fire

Fire caused slight damage to a cleaning establishment on South Grand Street Thursday morning, but the blaze was extinguished before serious damage occurred. The blaze was caused by overheat from the dryers.

Engines 102, 104 and Ladder 1 were sent to the Monroe Cleaners at 8:44 a.m. Damage was confined to the roof and ceiling of the building.

Washington Man Says False Teeth Displayed In Smithsonian Booth

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—George Chesky is a proud man today. He is convinced that, thanks to a homesteading oyster, his long lost store teeth have become a scientific curiosity in the Smithsonian Institution.

Smithsonian officials, on the other hand, are positive they don't have Chesky's teeth. But they admit they can't answer this question.

If those aren't Chesky's teeth, whose teeth are they?

It all began last Sunday while Chesky was reading the Washington Star. There was a story on mollusks, and the illustrations included pictures of the housing habits of oysters. One had attached itself to the bowl of a pipe. A Chesapeake Bay oyster had settled down on a set of false teeth.

Although the mollusk man himself, Chesky, looked but a look to become interested.

"My teeth," he cried.

Chesky immediately yanked out his present set and—with his wife joining him in this scientific enterprise—compared it with the picture, tooth for tooth.

"No doubt about it," Chesky said. "They're mine. My wife agrees with me."

Fifteen years ago, Chesky said, he and two companions went fishing in Chesapeake Bay. The fish weren't nibbling, so they went swimming instead. In the course of nosing around, one popped Chesky's teeth and down they sank to an oyster bed 30 feet below.

Chesky, a spray painter who has worn false teeth for 22 of his 43 years, fondly recalls his lost teeth. "They were the best made," he said. "Cost 120 bucks, a lot of money in those days."

Chesky is presently willing to let the Smithsonian have the teeth, but he does think it would be nice if the Smithsonian—which has a nice copy of store bought teeth worn by Theodore Roosevelt—also acknowledged who originally owned the oyster's teeth.

This the Smithsonian does not propose to do.

Harold A. Rehder, curator of the mollusk division, says his records show the teeth were dredged up in 1898, or 13 years before Chesky was born.

Incidentally, Rehder says it isn't at all unusual for oysters to attach themselves to some common article.

"The young oyster swims about," he said, "ready to grow on anything solid it can anchor to. They often are found on old bottles."

But this is the only oyster the Smithsonian has with teeth.

All of which leaves Chesky unimpressed. The Smithsonian boys may know their mollusks, but he knows his mollars.

"I'd bet a week's salary," he said, "that those are my teeth."

Printing Done By State Agencies Is Survey Theme

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A Legislative Council survey of state printing said today 24 agencies owning press equipment did slightly more than a third of their own printing work last fiscal year.

In fiscal 1952-53, the report said, the approximate value of printing done in 24 agencies owning printing equipment was $225,390. These same agencies contracted with private commercial printers for $428,261 of printed materials.

Of a total 68 state agencies checked, the 24 owned "most of the state-owned printing equipment." It was valued at $100,000 and required an annual payroll of $1,450 for operating personnel.

The study included reproduction by copy-letterpress, offset, stencil printing and ditto.

The eight colleges supervised by the state Board of Education owned printing equipment valued at $108,886. These institutions did approximately $28,000 of their own work, and farmed out $148,236 to resident printers and $48,364 to non-resident printers.

The council, official research wing of the state Legislature, listed four major arguments in favor of state agencies doing their own printing:

1. Printing done on office machines is usually more economical.

2. Office machine printing "can be made to look as good as letterpress and serves the purpose in instances where appearance is not a primary consideration."

3. Speed is an "important factor." Emergency situations can be met without waiting for commercial press schedules "and late deliveries can be made without additional cost."

4. "Office machines are sufficiently varied so agencies can decide which can best meet their purposes."

Arguments advanced against printing by state agencies:

1. It "puts the state in competition with private business."

2. Since detailed cost-accounting records are seldom kept "it is not always accurate to say such printing is more economical than printing by private concerns."

3. "Inexpensive printing tends to lower the tone of the agency, and a bad impression can be gotten of a department which puts out unattractive materials."

4. Equipment costs are expensive. "Also, agencies having their own equipment are likely to print unnecessary materials and overestimate their needs."

5. "Many legislators and others complain at the volume of inconsequential material they receive and the impossibility of reading it all. With more selective choosing . . . volume would be greatly reduced and each item could be more effectively and attractively printed at little, if any, additional cost to the agency."

For the temperature forecasts, figures on barometric pressure in 81 different spots in North America are used in equations worked out by Dr. Wadsworth.

Only an electronic brain can do the mathematics, and it comes up with 14 numbers that give a full description of the pressure map of the continent.

These 14 numbers go back into the robot brain, are scrambled up with information on the history of past pressure maps and, within minutes, out comes a table showing the temperature probabilities at any given location.

The technique, said to work anywhere in the country, was developed by Dr. Thomas F. Malone and Dr. George Wadsworth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology professors, and Don G. Friedman and Robert G. Miller, graduate students.

PRESIDENT GOES TO PRESS CONFERENCE—Flanked by his Press Secretary James Hagerty, President Eisenhower holds his head high as he walks from the White House to the Executive Offices building across the street for his weekly news conference on January 27.

VFW Asks Its Members To Give FBI Names Of Suspected Communists

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars said Wednesday all its 1.2 million members have been urged to turn over to the FBI names of any fellow citizens they think might be Communists.

VFW headquarters made the statement after it was disclosed that the VFW post at Newark, Conn., had launched a suspected-Communist campaign as part of a membership drive. The Newark post said it was "trying to wake up the people" in that city. Georgia VFW posts also are sending names of suspects to the FBI.

The disclosure touched off a round of discussion in government circles that ranged from the White House to Congress and brought both support and a note of caution.

President Eisenhower told a news conference there is nothing to prevent anyone from sending names to the FBI. But he said libel and slander laws should protect persons against falsehoods whether made by an individual or a group.

Chairman Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.) suggested that the VFW also send his House Un-American Activities committee any information it turns up on suspect Reds. He welcomed the "cooperation of such patriotic organizations."

Chairman Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Iowa) of the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee, hailed the drive as an "ex-Done With Discretion."

Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.), a member of McCarthy's subcommittee, said the VFW was doing "nothing more than any citizen has a right to do." But he said that "if it is done on an organized basis, it has to be done with a great deal of discretion."

The FBI declined to comment. But it has a long-standing policy of encouraging citizens with information about subversives to report to the FBI and then keep quiet about it.

VFW national commander Wayne E. Richards, Arkansas City, Kan., said VFW posts are "fulfilling their obligations as loyal Americans in bringing to the attention of the FBI people suspects of being subversive."

He was unable to predict how long the full-scale investigation will take. He said that depends "on what we find" during the course of the inquiry. He also declined to discuss what facts already have been unearthed.

Meanwhile, there were a flurry of other developments on the coffee front.

1. Colombian Ambassador Dr. Eduardo Zuleta-Angel said the FTC investigation will "convince everyone, once and for all, that the coffee producing countries are not engaged in speculation or any other tactics to raise the price of coffee."

2. Government statistics showed that although the price of imported coffee rose from 51 to 54 cents a pound between January and November, 1953, retail prices climbed from 86 to 91 cents.

3. Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) said he is going to press for a Senate Banking committee investigation in spite of the FTC inquiry. Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said his Senate Agriculture committee plans early consideration of a bill to put the coffee market under federal control.

FTC Chairman Edward F. Howrey said the retail of coffee has gone up about 25 cents a pound in the last few months "and may increase further in the near future."

The budget which President Eisenhower sent to Congress this week allotted $181,175,000 to the Coast Guard, a reduction of $30,675,000.

The Coast Guard, in an analysis of its budget, said:

"The reduction was accomplished to a large extent by curtailing or eliminating activities which have been provided by the Coast Guard to meet increased military operations."

It said the port security program, started in 1950, with 4,772 officers and men, to keep ports clear of subversives, would lose 2,053 officers and men. In addition, foot patrols of waterfronts would be eliminated.

Electronic Brain Goes Into Use To Forecast Weather

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists say they will soon be able to tell the odds on whether it will rain or snow, be hot or cold tomorrow—but it takes an electronic brain to do it.

The new method of weather forecasting was described yesterday in a paper at the 127th national meeting of the American Meteorological Society.

So far, the scientists said, they are only processing temperature forecasts—"five to four it will hit 80."

But they soon hope to be able to say "two to one it will rain tomorrow," or "odds are even it will snow."

The technique, said to work anywhere in the country, was developed by Dr. Thomas F. Malone and Dr. George Wadsworth, Massachusetts Institute of Technology professors, and Don G. Friedman and Robert G. Miller, graduate students.

For the temperature forecasts, figures on barometric pressure in 81 different spots in North America are used in equations worked out by Dr. Wadsworth.

Only an electronic brain can do the mathematics, and it comes up with 14 numbers that give a full description of the pressure map of the continent.

Indians Overcome First Half Deficit To Win, 72-70

Gibson Accuracy On Free Throws Beats Choctaws

By TED HECKATHORN

They say the third time is a charm. After two previous close decision losses to the Mississippi College Choctaws, the Northeast State Indians overcame a Mississippi lead that extended from the opening whistle to early in the third period, and hung on to register a 72-70 win last night in the Ouachita Parish High School gymnasium.

Trailing 22-16 at the end of the first quarter and 33-32 at intermission, largely because of the accuracy of sharpshooting Choctaw forward, Howard Sessums, who racked up 16 of his game-high point 23 in the first half; the Tribe forged into a 47-36 lead midway in the third and a 49-42 margin at quarter's end and were never headed during the fourth, although the visitors closed to 55-53, 59-57, and finally, 72-70.

Even then, a final jump shot by reserve Choctaw guard Bob Castles, with ten seconds to go, overshot its mark, preventing the tussle from going into overtime. After an ensuing jump ball, the game ended with the Indians in possession.

Mel Gibson, who was high-point man for the Northeast quint, with 19, was practically a one-man show for his team in the dying moments. Constantly dribbling in the Indian lane was fouled time after time, and he sank five straight. When the Choctaws tried to avoid fouling the dribbling whiz, he promptly went all the way and laid up an important two-pointer. Although Gibson only hit for four field goals, still suffering a floor-inaccuracy hangover from Tuesday night's tussle against Southeastern, he dropped in 11 donations from the free throw line.

Bill Bigby and Robert Bennett were next high for the winners in the scoring branch, with 16 and 13 respectively. Both Indian scrappers, along with Bill Crowe, were chief Tribe rebounders throughout, though Bennett, for the second consecutive night, was forced out early in the fourth via the personal foul rule.

The tight Northeast defense, with Bob McPhail, Dick Ford, and Junior Austin coming off the bench to play a hang-up game, held the 52-53 Junior College All-America Sessums to seven points in the final half, which was a far cry from his first half accuracy. The Mississippi ace had just as many shots. The difference was that the tight Tribe defense forced him to shoot off balance and hurry his shots.

Harold Davis, playing his usually alert and scrappy defensive game, started in place of James Shively, who will be wearing the olive drab of Uncle Sam in the future, instead of his familiar maroon and gold double zero.

Troy and Nichols, a newcomer to the Keglers Bowling League got started with a bang by taking two out of three games with News-Star-World. McWilliams, with a 184 game and a 522 series, was top man for the Troy and Nichols. Finkbeiner, with a 193 game and a 508 series, was the News Boys leader.

Guerriero Insurance bested Borden Company two out of three games and total pins good for three points to the Milk Boys one point. Cash coming to the aid of fast skidding Jones with 193 game and a 541 series, led the Insurance boys. Corro, with a 197 game, and a 464 series for Watts led the Milk Boys.

Roi-Tan Cigar bested Kiper Hardware two games to one and total pins for three points. Williams, shooting a 202 game and a 520 series, led the Smokers. Kilcoyne, with a neat 244 game and a 626 series, led Kiper.

Alexander's Tailor won four points the easy way, winning on a forfeit from Holloway's Service. Villa shooting a 190 game and a 540 series was the high man for the Tailors.

Todd Withdraws From Tex. Aggie Job Consideration

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Jan. 28.—Dick Todd withdrew Wednesday from consideration as head football coach at Texas A&M.

The former Aggie star who now is an assistant at Southern Methodist said he had never filed an application for the job and only came here for an interview at the request of A&M officials.

Todd's withdrawal left only Mike Michalske, Aggie line coach, and an unidentified coach from the Midwest as the lone contenders for the job.

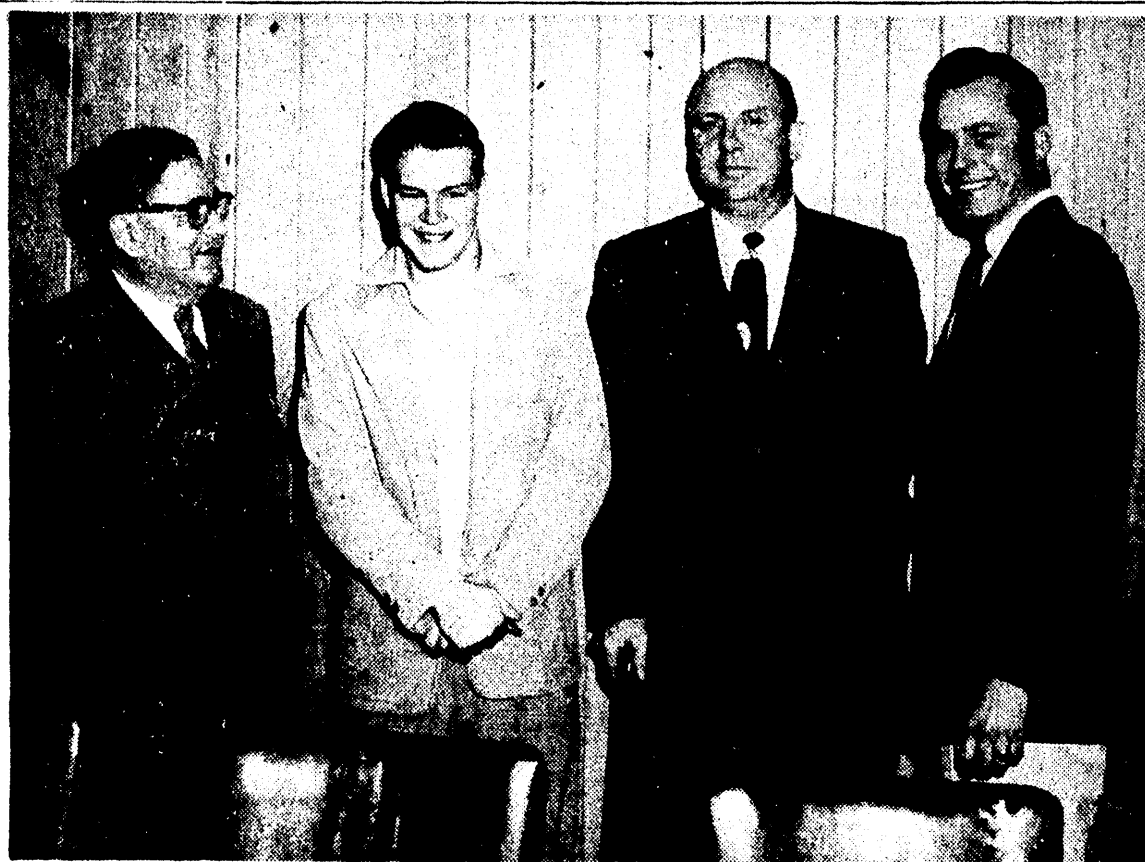

The unidentified coach entered the picture Tuesday. His name was not among the four coaches A&M officials had invited for interviews Wednesday.

In addition to Todd and Michalske, the four had included J. V. (Ski) Sikes and Johnny Vaughn. Sikes, former coach at Kansas, signed a one year contract Tuesday night as head coach at East Texas State. Vaughn withdrew his name from consideration.

Todd said he would not accept the A&M job under any conditions. He said a stomach disorder and business interest in West Texas make it impossible for him to consider the job.

BAICH SIGNS

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 28.—Baseball catcher Danny Baich has signed his 1954 contract with the Texas League Houston Buffs. Baich hit .326 in 1952 with Oklahoma City but was bothered by hand injuries most of the 1953 season while with Rochester and Columbus.

Neville Ready To Start Cage Tourney Tomorrow

Neville High School yesterday was set to produce its invitational basketball tournament tomorrow and Saturday with 18 contending teams after shake-ups by withdrawals and late entries brought about slight shufflings of the pairings.

Tomorrow's opening program, as announced yesterday, will be as follows:

Boys—Ouachita vs. Weston, 1:30 p.m.; L.T.I. vs. Start, 3 p.m.; St. Matthew's vs. Gilsland, 5 p.m.; Neville vs. Rayville, 7 p.m.

Girls—St. Matthew's vs. West Monroe, 4 p.m.; and Neville vs. Rayville, 8 p.m.

The Ouachita-Weston game was given a 30-minute later start than earlier announced since withdrawal of Farmerville's boys voided a 2 p.m. game with Fairview Alpha which now moves on a bye to the L.T.I.-Start winner Saturday afternoon.

Cloutierville, another boys entry, makes its appearance Saturday morning against the Ouachita-A belated Calhoun entry was put Weston winner.

Ben Hogan Heads 36-Man Field For Thunderbird Play

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 28.—A select roll of 36 professionals, headed by famed Ben Hogan, shot their final practice rounds Wednesday in preparation for the $15,000 Invitational Golf Tournament over the Thunderbird Country Club course. Play starts Thursday.

The pros will team with club members and a few other invited amateurs in the first two 18-hole rounds, and then finish out the 72 holes by themselves. The tournament ends Sunday.

Media scores for the four rounds will be counted in the prize distribution. Jimmy Demaret won the event, over a 54-hole distance, last year with a score of 201, fifteen strokes under par for the 6,300-yard course. He shot an eagle 3 on the 18th to climax the round and beat out Hogan, Lloyd Mangrum and Jim Turnesa by two strokes.

Scheduled to play this year is Gene Littler, 1953 National Amateur champion, who turned professional Tuesday night following his victory Sunday in the $15,000 San Diego Open.

Hogan makes this one of his few tournament appearances. He is the winter pro at the neighboring Tamarish Country Club. Also on hand for a rare appearance is Bryon Nelson.

The remainder of the pros invited are Demaret, Mangrum, Cary Middlecoff, Ed Dudley, Lawson Little, Dutch Harrison, Julius Boros, Art Wall, Jr., Chandler Harper, Doug Ford, Tommy Bolt, Ted Kroll, Peter Thomson, Jack Burke, Jr., Marty Furgol, Earl Stewart, Jr., Johnny Palmer, Al Bessellink, Bob Winger, Palmer Fines, Turnesa, Walter Burkemo, Fred Haas, Jr., George Howard, Fred Wanpeter, Wally Ulich, Eric Monti, Shelley Mayfield, Jim Frier, Dave Douglas, Jerry Barber, Ed Oliver and Lew Worsham.

Hausmann Will Pilot Austin Of Big State

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 28.—George Hausmann, former New York Giant second baseman, will be player-manager of the Austin Pilots in the Big State Baseball League this season. Hausmann managed the Anderson S. C. team in the Tri-State League in 1952 and the York Pa. team in the Piedmont League last season.

Maxim Floored Twice As Moore Wins Title Bout

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28.—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore floored Joey Maxim twice with smashing rights and handed him a savage beating Wednesday night to score his third straight title victory over the former titleholder.

The 37-year old 175-pound king, with covered the ring as a 6-5 underdog in a surprising late fight of odds, sent the 31-year-old Cleveland cracker to the canvas for a six count in the eighth round and a seven count in the 11th.

This was the most impressive of the three wins the ancient St. Louis-born Negro has racked up against the light-hitting but dead-end Max.

Moore gave Joey a good shellacking when he took the title from Maxim in St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952, but he never was able to floor him. In their second fight in Ogden, Utah, June 24, 1953, Archie barely squeezed through for a narrow decision win.

The votes of the three officials were unanimous and that came as a surprise to the crowd of 16,375 that paid an estimated $93,000 for the nationally telecast and broadcast 15-rounder.

Referee Cy Gottfried had it 145-137, Judge Marty Monroe, 148-135 and Judge Mark Erwin, 148-134. The AP card had Moore the winner, 148-131.

Bobby Dykes, the lean Texan who upset Joey Giambra here a month ago, outpointed Johnny Lombardo in the ten-round semi-final but the rough, tough slugger from Mt. Carmel, Pa., gave Dykes a rough evening.

Rayville Cagers Cop Double Bill Over Eagle Foes

RAYVILLE, La., Jan. 28 (Special)—Rayville High School's basketball team swept a double header from Holly Ridge Tuesday night by margins that indicate the Hornets may rule as Richland Parish's best on the cage floors this season.

The Hornets quint defeated the Eagles, 52-39, after the Rayville girls had emerged with a 36-25 triumph.

Newsom and Thomas, with 15 points apiece, led the offense for Rayville, but the Hornets' outstanding player was McCarty who turned in a sparkling defensive job in limiting Sullivan, the Holly Ridge ace, to a lone field goal, thereby shattering Sullivan's average of 20-plus points per game. The Eagles, sparked by Carroll with 12 points, led the Hornets at the half, but Rayville pulled away in the last half.

John Sorey sparked the Rayville girls to victory while Geraldine McManus was outstanding for Holly Ridge.

Ex-Spartan Mentor Gets 28-20 Lencor

EAST LANSING, Mich., Jan. 28.—It will be easy for football fans to spot the car driven by Michigan State's athletic director Clarence (Biggie) Munn this year. An aluminum stood in line to get Munn a license plate with the tag NL 28-20.

He explained that the 28-20 represented the score of the Michigan State Rose Bowl football game with UCLA, Munn's last game as head coach.

Munn asked what the letters "NL" stood for.

"Never licked," the fan explained.

Lake Providence Opens 3-Day Cage Event Today

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Jan. 28 (Special)—The Lake Providence Invitational Basketball Tournament opens here Thursday with three games on the opening card. The program gains momentum Friday and continues through Saturday.

The decision of Epps and Pioneer to withdraw teams from the girls' division cut into Thursday's program. Tallulah, slated to play Epps, thus advanced to a quarter-final meeting with the St. Joseph girls, and Lake Providence, which was to have played Pioneer also goes to a quarter-final date with Bonita's sextet.

Thursday's card includes a special school benefit game between Lake Providence and Tallulah boys at 2 p.m. The night card will send Monticello's boys against Kilbourne at 7 o'clock, and Oak Grove's boys against Pioneer at 8 o'clock.

Epps is favored in the boys' division but Holly Ridge holds a win over Epps and has won several tournaments, thus rating Holly Ridge high among the contenders, along with Winnboro, Ogden, and Forest. Oak Grove's sextet is heavily

Newellton Coach Leads Tri-Parish Basketball Loop

FERRIDAY, La., Jan. 28 (Special)—J. L. McConathy, coach at Newellton High School will serve as chairman of the newly formed high school sports league for Catahoula, Concordia and Tensas parishes.

Although a basketball tournament is planned for this year, Feb. 25-27 the league will actually begin to function in basketball and track, and next year in basketball.

A group of principals and coaches from the three parishes will meet again March 3 at 3 p.m. at Ferriday High School.

Ten girls' teams and 10 boys teams will enter the tournament in February. These include Vidalia, Monterey, Central, Block of Jonesville, St. Joseph, Harrisonburg, Enterprise, Newellton, Waterproof and Ferriday.

The complete schedule arranged is as follows: Girls bracket: Monterey vs. Central at 5:30 p.m. Feb. 25, winner to meet top-seeded Vidalia at 10 a.m. Feb. 26.

Block High vs. St. Joseph at 2:40 p.m. Feb. 26, winner meets Vidalia-Monterey-Central winners in upper bracket semi-finals at 10 a.m. Feb. 27.

West Monroe's Cagers Take On Fair Park Five

The West Monroe Rebels and the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport will make up their postponed game of last week in a meeting scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock, Coach Dan McClure announced last night. Bad and threatening weather resulted in postponement of the Class AA conference meeting scheduled for last Friday.

A double header will be on tap for the fans with junior varsity teams opening the show at 7 o'clock in the West Monroe gymnasium.

Coach McClure is expected to open with a lineup of Richard Kincaide, Tommy Sanders, "Chubby" Johnston, "Duggo" Fincher and Gary Huckabay or David Powell. Clem Henderson of Fair Park is expected to start Bill Massey, Cecil Rhodes, Ronnie Jerome, Willie Dowden, and Ronnie Ross or Madison Box.

Stengel Says 6th Straight Flag Depends On Pitching

Yankee Manager Afraid Age May Weaken Hurlers

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Casey Stengel, fearing his "big three" pitching may be too old, said today he didn't know if the New York Yankees could make it six straight pennants.

"I know I said last fall we'd win six, seven and eight," he told a press conference. "Now I don't know. Any club that wins too often is liable to get careless."

"It depends on spirit, condition and how much the other clubs have improved. Boston is better with Ted Williams back and that boy Jackie Jensen. Cleveland is better because Al Rosen is the best third baseman in baseball. Chicago is better because their pitching will be better from the beginning. This year they'll have Trucks (Virgil Trucks) all season."

Stengel was in rare form as he performed for the baseball writers and cameramen in the crowded Yankee office. Dazzling lights for the TV crew turned the room into a hot box.

Old Case covered the field on his first trip back since the World Series. He talked about trades, contracts, the Yankees, the opposition, Charlie Dresen and the state of baseball in general.

"We need some pitching if it's not on the farms," he said. "Weisler (Bob Weisler, 8-7 at Kansas City) may be ready. Morgan (Tom Morgan, in the army) may come back. I hope some other young guy can fool me. After all only eight men are still here who were with the club when I came. Somebody has got to make good. Nobody can say they don't get a chance to make the Yankees."

About Johnny Sain, who has said he has retired, Stengel had this to say:

"I don't like to see anybody quit baseball, especially if he's a fellow who wins 14 games for you. Last year he was a better pitcher than when we bought him from the National League."

Casey took a pot shot at managers who have been quoted in magazines as knowing the secrets of beating the Yankees.

"The fact is," he said, "with all this knowledge of how to pitch to our batters and how to play our hitters, we still won the pennant. Do I know how to pitch to everybody? If I did, I wouldn't put out all that good stuff. Four or five of the things they said were true. But we eliminated them. I wouldn't want to say what we did. It's a lousy thing to be talking about your own weaknesses when you're the champs.

"Sure some of our pitching may be too old. I turned down a couple last year. One of them would have made it easier to win the pennant. I'm not going to give Chicago any two for one."

"Who do they want?" You all know. It's in the paper every five minutes. Hank Bauer. Who would I like from them? I won't mention any names but I'll put up an arm."

Stengel raised his left arm high, an obvious reference to the Sox's lefthanded pitching ace, Billy Pierce.

He thought the A's got five good young players from the Yanks in the deal for Eddie Robinson and Harry Byrd. "If Robinson don't play good, we still have Collins," he commented. "Some of those fellows seem to think we traded Collins."

The indirect reference to Dresen came when he was talking about backing down on his prediction of last fall.

"Last fall we were all extra enthusiastic," he said. "Berra said we ought to win six or seven. I said so too. But you never know. Some guys (Dresen) know if you don't win a World Series, you get fired."

Salt Lake Sport Writers Say Rex Layne Washed Up

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 28 (AP)—The sports editors of both of Salt Lake City's daily newspapers begged Rex Layne Wednesday to hang up his gloves and get a job.

The advice came in signed columns by John Mooney of the Salt Lake Tribune, and Hack Miller of the Deseret News and Telegram.

Both were commenting on the Utah heavyweight's technical knockout Monday in New York at the hands of Tommy Jackson, and his assertion following the fight that he planned to rest a few months and then get in shape for another comeback attempt.

"Layne is finished. He's over the hump. He's been down and out four times in his last five fights," Miller wrote of the still young fighter who was rated a No. 2 heavyweight title challenger three years ago. "He's never learned to fight. . . Layne's just a right nice guy with a lot of guts and very little ring wisdom. He'd never say quit. The public can't take it any more."

Mooney recalled the poker player's advice that "any darn fool

Hilltopper Cage Coach Ignores Heart Trouble

By KYLE VANCE

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Jan. 28 (AP)—Western Kentucky basketball coach Ed Diddle has some advice for other coaches with bad hearts:

"Get yourself a team that can't lose, boys."

Diddle suffered three heart attacks last year that doctors say should have stopped a mule.

Everybody counted Diddle out of the coaching business except Diddle. He's back this season with a team that he thinks could be his best, although he won't say so yet.

"Tawn" and the rest of my boys are the best heart medicine any coach could possibly have," he drawled.

"Tawn" is Tom Marshall, rated by Diddle as the finest player he has coached in 33 years at Western—"The best all-round player I have ever seen."

Diddle, who has come through several close games unshaken this season, including a three-overtime victory over Dayton two weeks ago, said:

"I just learned that I had to exercise a little more self-control than I used to. Mother nature is man's finest teacher. She served notice on me that I had to take it easier if I wanted to stay in the game, and I wanted to stay."

And stay he did. He stayed to watch his Hilltoppers present him with his 601st victory last Saturday, the most ever won at one school by a coach. He stayed to watch them climb steadily in the Associated Press poll until they now are tied for fourth in the nation.

He stayed to watch them extend their win streak this season to 18 games. And he intends to keep on coaching until he decides for himself he should quit.

Diddle still considers his 1947-48 team his greatest, but says the current one can change his opinion.

He raves on and on over Marshall.

can call; it takes a smart man to lay 'em down when he knows he's beat."

"You have a fighting heart, Tex, one of the best we've seen in athletes in many years," Mooney added. "But a fighting heart isn't everything these days. . . you gave boxing a wonderful lift. . . you have conducted yourself honorably in the ring and in a lousy profession. . . now they are tossing you in against the younger fighters. . ."

Both writers mentioned Layne's distaste for training. Miller commented that Rex hasn't been in good condition since he fought Bob Satterfield four years ago.

shall, an outstanding All-America candidate. The senior sharpshooter from Tennessee, Diddle points out, can play any position and play it well.

"He gets tip-ins, hits from far out, hits overhead two-hands jumps from around the circle, hits with his falling-away one-hand push, and goes into the pivot and hooks them in," the coach declared.

Marshall and Jack Turner, the other starting forward, are the cool-headed play-masters who help most in the close ones.

In the triple-overtime Dayton marathon, Diddle said, Marshall and Turner were relaxed and kidding. "Which had a lot to do with us winning."

Marshall is Western's all-time leading scorer with a career total of 1,527 points.

"The way he plays is my best heart medicine," Diddle grinned.

Tulane Prepares For Reb, Maroon Games At Home

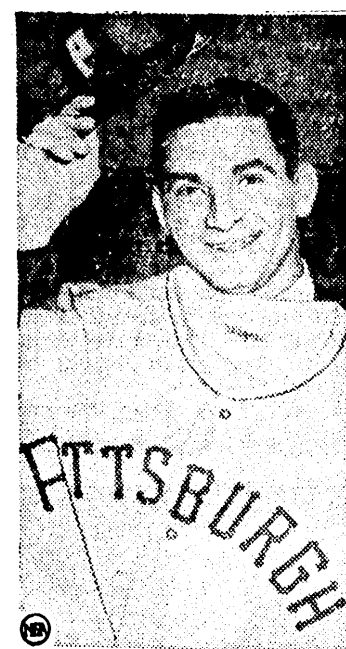

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28 (Special)—The well-traveled but home-loving Greenies of Tulane return to Southeastern Conference competition and to their own friendly floor for a Saturday-Monday stand against Ole Miss and Mississippi State.

Starting time is 8:15 p.m. for both games, a sweep of which would give the Wave a good grip on third place in the S.E.C. basketball standings.

Such success, however, is far from guaranteed. Currently showing records of 9-5 for all outines and 3-1 for league play, Coach Cliff Wells' athletes will be facing two of their oldest and (this year) more dangerous rivals.

Ole miss features the prolific scoring of six-foot-three senior forward Robert (Cob) Jarvis and six-foot-four and junior center Denver Brackeen, who have averaged 21.5 and 20.7 points, respectively. Last season Jarvis was an All-S.E.C. choice and Brackeen, with East Central (Miss.), was named the most outstanding junior college performer in the country.

That torrid twosome has led the freewheeling Rebels to an 8-5 mark to date, including a 78-74 upset of Vanderbilt at Nashville last week. Tulane chances will be improved if another Mississippian, center

FITS FINE—Sid Gordon, who went to the Pirates from the Braves in the big deal for Danny O'Connell, tries on a Pittsburgh uniform for size. (NEA.)

Phil Wallace, is ready for action. The Greenies' transfer student from Millsaps College was averaging 11 points before being sidelined by a sprained ankle January 7. In his absence the Wave accomplished routine conquests of Florida and Georgia but then was routed by Kentucky, narrowly edged Tennessee and was upset by Spring Hill. Wallace, who will reclaim the center position from Bob Kriebel and Jim Nowakowski if he is able, ranks second to guard Hal Cervini on the Tulane scoring ladder. Although his mark has suffered in recent games, Cervini is still tops with a 14.1 figure. He is followed by Wallace, forward Pat Browne (10.3), guard Roy Stoll (9.3) and forward Dick Brennan (7.9).

Challcote In Strong Finish To Score Win In Fair Grounds Run

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 28 (AP)—W. H. Bishop's Challcote put on a strong finish down the middle of the stretch to score a neck victory in the $3,000 V.F.W. Purse at the New Orleans Fair Grounds Wednesday.

Challcote was timed in 1:43 1/5 for the mile and one-sixteenth and paid $13.60, $6.80 and $3.40. Alie-Ed returned $6.80 and $4 and Mock Battle $3.40. A crowd of 6,500 bet $394,266 on the nine-race card.

Ted Kluszewski Inks Redleg Pact For Record Sum

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ted Kluszewski, home run hitting first baseman, was signed to a 1954 contract by the Cincinnati Redlegs Wednesday for the highest pay ever given a player by the club.

The guess was $35,000.

Gabe Paul, general manager of the local National League Club, said:

"He's getting the record contract for a Redleg player and that should speak for what we think of Ted."

Neither Paul nor Kluszewski would state the exact amount.

Highest paid players on the Cincinnati teams of the past were Ewell Blackwell, Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters.

Kluszewski hit 40 home runs last season, batted in 108 runs, had 25 doubles, scored 97 runs and hit .316 in 149 games. His 40 homers set a new record for a Cincinnati batter. He also led the National League first sackers for the third successive year with a .995 fielding mark.

Suspended NBA Referee Hands In Resignation

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Johnny Nucatola, prominent New York basketball referee and coach, said Wednesday he was quitting the National Basketball Association as a referee after he was suspended by N.B.A. president Maurice Podoloff.

Podoloff said Tuesday that Nucatola no longer is being assigned to the professional games because he was "indiscreet" in naming coaches he charged with poor sportsmanship at NBA games.

"I don't care whether they want me back or not," Nucatola said. "I'm not going back. I think the whole business was an injustice, not just to me but to all basketball officials."

Nucatola told the New York Basketball Writers Association recently that most of the NBA coaches resorted to "muckers tactics" such as berating the referees before the fans, and ordering players to commit fouls. He named coach Al Cervini of Syracuse as an example.

Dueling is prohibited by the Texas constitution, and duelers are prohibited from voting or holding office.

The Scoreboard

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Charley Young makes a good suggestion to major league baseball owners.

They should have their own speakers' bureau.

Young veteran sports editor of the Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker News, is sick and tired of money-hungry ball players who seem to believe that every sports dinner, smoker of Hot Stove League session has a treasury that should be insured by Lloyd's of London.

Shortly after the World Series, Young, who like the rest of us in this business is constantly asked to help arrange appearances by ball players for such as the First Methodist Men's Club and other worthwhile affairs received a letter from one Mary L. Buxbaum of Brookline, Mass.

"How would you like to have one of the New York Yankee players as your speaker for a sports night this fall or winter?" it read. "Act now." Mary Buxbaum listed Gene Woodling, Gil McDougald and Joe Collins as being her personal management. "The fee is only $100 plus minimum expenses," she wrote.

Apparently, the poor sap trying to peddle baseball in his old home town was supposed to have his checkbook out by this time, ready to scribble off a fast three-figured coupon, for Booker Buxbaum added quickly, "Would you like to have Jimmy Piersall, the sensational Boston Red Sox outfielder? I can arrange for Piersall's appearance. Jimmy's fee is $150 for an evening performance and $75 for an appearance at a luncheon or a breakfast meeting."

For the front office of a big league club to permit a letter of this sort to be sent out is a disgrace and a thoroughly intolerable situation.

Practically all of the standout players, and even a number of lesser lights, now have agents.

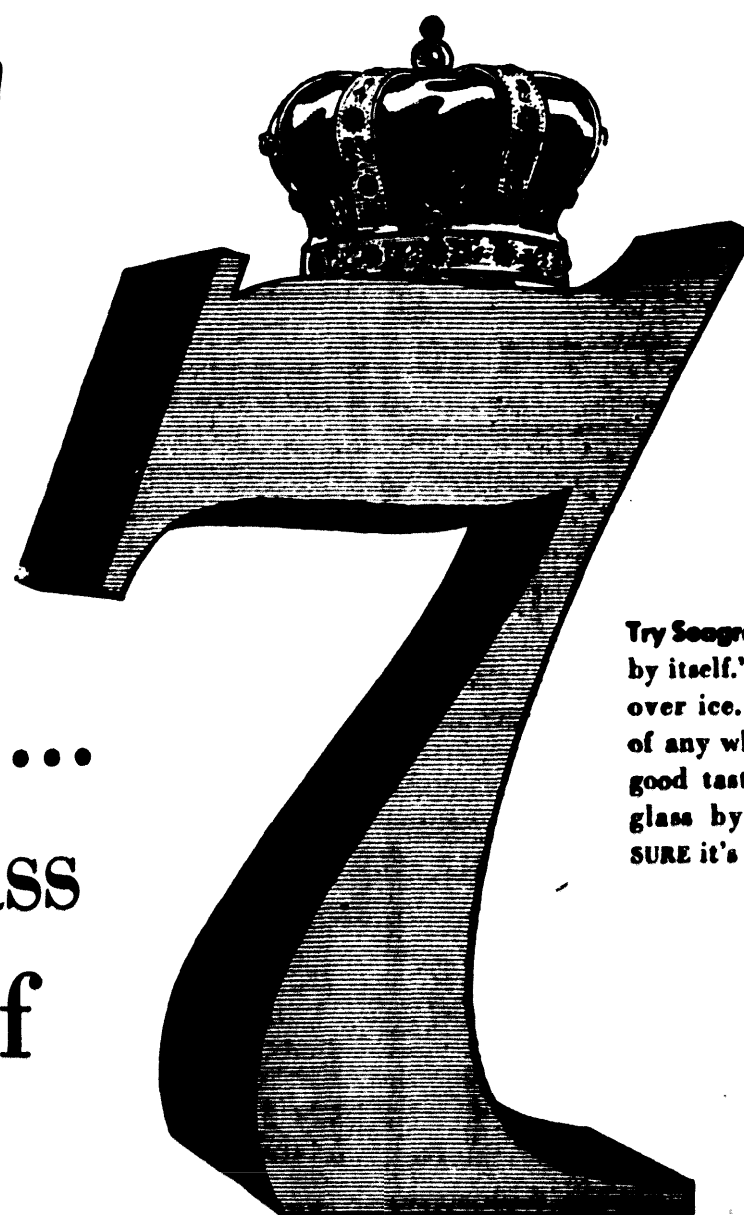

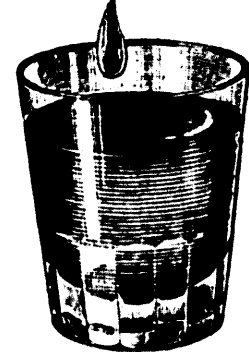

At a time when baseball, more than ever needs the support of the real fans—the blokes who go to the smokers and sports nights—it is allowing its players to assume roles as hungry little men, who deem it a favor to even say hello for anything less than $150.

Major League Baseball far too long has been far away from the customer.

Players are paid on a yearly contract. Their off-season appearances are important to the clubs and the game. Any time a player can sit down with a group of addicts and win them over, he is helping baseball. These people will, somewhere along the line, pay their way into a park where they might not have otherwise.

Bill Veeck had the right idea—keeping a show on the road throughout the fall and winter.

Naturally, a noble athlete employed during the off-season should be reimbursed for time lost.

Bricker Support Falters

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—This time a year ago Sen. Bricker could claim the support of 64 senators, including himself, for his proposed amendment to the Constitution to limit treaty-making. He can't claim that many now.

It's doubtful the Ohio Republican could muster enough Senate votes to get his proposal through, although only two thirds of those present at voting time are needed—not two thirds, or 64, of the total of 96 senators.

His support began to melt under the heat from the White House which had been there for a year but didn't burst into flames until this week.

Then President Eisenhower said he was dead set against Bricker's project. This was enough to make some of Bricker's forces start looking for an exit.

They can use a handy excuse if they're accused of running out: a year ago they were backing Bricker's amendment. The one before the Senate now is less than the American Bar Assn's.

Bricker first offered his idea in the Senate in 1951. In 1952 the BA's House of Delegates, but not by unanimous vote, approved one of its own. ABA's was tougher. Bricker backs it wholeheartedly.

The two proposals were the product of long-time criticism and of fears.

The criticism was aimed at the wartime agreements made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman with Stalin. A President, under the constitutional authority of his office, can make agreements with other governments. Eisenhower has done so.

Some day, perhaps, a president might deliberately use an agreement to avoid seeking the two-thirds Senate support which the Constitution requires if a treaty is made.

Therefore, the Bricker group argued, the Constitution should have some safeguard written into it specifically giving Congress authority to regulate executive agreements. That's one thing the Bricker amendment proposes.

But in the end, Bricker's critics say, this might do more damage than the kind Bricker is intent on preventing.

What does "regulate" mean? To day it might seem to mean Congress could pass a law regulating an agreement. Tomorrow Congress might decide it had authority to make the President report on every step he took in foreign affairs. In short, Bricker's critics protest, this kind of thing would give Congress full control of the conduct of foreign affairs, making the President a congressional messenger, thus destroying the separation of powers so carefully laid down by the Founding Fathers when they wrote the Constitution.

The Bricker group expressed alarm on another score, even though the Senate, whose members are elected from the states, does have control over treaties, some future Senate and president, unwarily or deliberately, might agree with some international organization on a treaty that would impair citizens' constitutional rights or the powers reserved to the states.

So the Bricker amendment

Feb. 1 Deadline For Farmers To File Tax Reports

February 1 is an important federal income tax deadline for farmers and employers. District Director of Internal Revenue Geo. A. Lambert said today.

"Farmers who did not file estimated tax returns for 1953 are required to file their final income tax return by midnight of February 1," the district director said. "The usual deadline is January 31, but since that date falls on a Sunday farmers are given an extra day to comply with the law."

Farmers' estimated tax returns and estimated tax payments were due on January 15. Mr. Lambert explained, but those farmers who did not file an estimate may avoid penalties by filing their final return and paying their income tax on or before February 1.

He also said that during the month of January employers must issue statements of tax withheld from wages (Form W-2) to all employees.

The district director of internal revenue also called attention to the fact that midnight Monday is also the deadline for:

Employers to file their quarterly return of withheld income and social security taxes on Form 941, accompanied by triplicates of Form W-2a. Payment in cash of depository receipts is also required.

Employers to file reconciliation returns on tax withholding statements issued to employees.

Employers of eight or more persons to file federal unemployment tax returns.

The deadline for filing 1953 income tax returns for persons other than farmers (and for farmers who filed estimated returns) is March 15.

HI-Y HAS OWN NEWSOM
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 28—UP—A special set of newsmen will cover the third annual Hi-Y youth legislature which meets in Oklahoma City Friday. They will be Hi-Y members charged with reporting for radio stations or newspapers in their hometowns. Dan Fullerton, 17, of Lawton will be the Hi-Y's governor and his sister, Julia, 16, will be president pro tempore of the Senate.

would provide that a treaty could take effect as internal law only if Congress so provided—and it would limit Congress' action to those fields marked out for it in the Constitution.

Although Bricker denies this would give the 48 states a veto over treaties and the government's handling of foreign affairs, Eisenhower says it would do just that. Bricker and his amendment didn't get to first base between 1951 and the end of 1952, but his supporters gathered strength around the country.

When 1953 ushered in the Eisenhower administration and Republican control of Congress, Bricker exuded confidence. But Eisenhower wasn't in the White House a month before two of his top aides, Secretary of State Dulles and Atty. Gen. Brownell, were arguing against these constitutional changes.

Eisenhower said he was willing to work out a compromise with Bricker but up to the time the Senate debate opened none had been reached. If at the last minute Eisenhower didn't take a strong, unmistakable stand against Bricker, there was still a chance the amendment might get through.

Eisenhower took his stand Tuesday by denouncing the amendment. At this time it seems the best Bricker can hope for is Senate approval on a compromise.

Boyle Takes Up Weighty Question On Pipe Smokers

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Never mind whether cigarettes give you a cough.

Science is already musing over such problems. Let's take up today another tempestuous issue in the world of tobacco, which is:

If a man smokes a pipe he is less likely to rob a bank, strike his wife, or saw his mother-in-law in half?

The nation has an estimated 18 million regular or part-time pipe smokers. Are they a more law-abiding class than other type smokers?

To get the answer to this great social question Morris L. Levinson, president of the Kaywoodie Pipe Co., polled 200 police chiefs.

We have the results at hand. The statistics—like most statistics—seem to prove pretty much whatever you want to believe anyway.

To begin with, 131 police chiefs didn't reply at all. Of the 69 police chiefs who did respond to the poll, 22 ducked the issue by saying they had no figures on the smoking habits of their local criminals. Just why not, they didn't say.

The remaining 47 police chiefs more or less bore out Levinson's hopeful faith that pipe smokers make good family men, rarely cause the cops trouble, and seldom kick small dogs around.

A few comments:

The prefect of police in Paris, France, regretted he had no statistical data but admitted he smoked a pipe himself.

"John McGraw of the New York Giants put thumbs down on ball-players that smoked a pipe because they were the 'peaceful' type," wrote Chief of Detectives George Lofquist of Sacramento, Calif. "McGraw claimed they lacked that fighting spirit and I believe he was right to a large extent."

"Older men are pipe smokers, and crime reports reveal that the younger age groups predominate in crime," said Chief Roy D. Kerr of Tacoma, Wash.

"I do not smoke at all myself," said police officer L. M. Hilton of Ogden, Utah, but acknowledged pipe smokers committed few homicides in his area.

"We have had dealings with thousands of criminals here, and I cannot recall one of the 'big-time' criminals smoking a pipe," commented Chief O. A. Boone of Meridian, Miss. "On the contrary, they chain-smoked cigarettes, many of them taking only a couple puffs before stubbing it out and lighting another."

"Pipe smokers seem to have less nervous tension," wrote Police Supt. Leo Kuddy of Scranton, Pa. "Pipe smokers are generally Supt. Leo Kuddy of Scranton, Pa."

"It would appear pipe smokers come from the more stable social group," observed Chief S. G. Hauckedahl of Kenosha, Wis.

"Pipe smokers are generally older, more settled persons than are the cigarette smokers, and it naturally follows that the cigarette smokers will be more numerous among the law violators," said Chief Ray Blankenship of North Little Rock, Ark.

Frankly, it seems to us this poll raises more questions than it answers.

What shape of pipe and what brand of tobacco will make pipe smokers even more lovable citizens?

Would pipe smoking by wives make them more peaceful in the home?

Does the country really need a good 5-cent cigar, or would it just create new worries for the police?

Who commits the most crimes—the regular cigarette smoker, the filtered cigarette smoker, or the guy who likes "em king size?" Will police chiefs appear on television saying, "Why don't you smoke my brand—you don't see me being arrested, do you?"

Talbot Clarifies Remarks Made At News Conference

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbot hurriedly revised yesterday a statement of U.S. intention to use bases in Spain during time of war to say it will be in line with agreements between the two nations.

"Who is going to stop us?" Talbot quickly asked when a reporter said reports are current that the agreement under which this country is starting to build several large airdromes in Spain does not provide for American use of the bases in wartime.

At another point he said: "There are certain agreements on the use of bases but when the balloon goes up we are going to use them."

He made the remarks at a news conference also attended by Secretary of Defense Wilson and other air officials.

Shortly after the conference ended, Talbot's office sent to the Pentagon press room a typed statement in which the secretary said he wished to clarify his remark. He added:

"The U.S. Air Force has every intention of living up to the agreements between the United States and those foreign countries that have granted air base rights to our country. We realize that such base rights are an undertaking in the mutual defense and we enter such undertakings with every spirit of cooperation."

The agreement with Spain, setting up an exchange of economic and military aid for use of the bases, does not spell out precisely how the bases would be used. It authorizes their development and use "subject to terms and conditions" decided upon by the two nations.

Talbot's clarifying statement obviously was intended to counter the likelihood that his first remark might annoy the Spanish government, which like other nations is sensitive about sovereignty.

In another part of the news conference, Air Force officials emphasized the vast increase in striking power given smaller bombers.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, said the Air Force now has a fighter-bomber and light bomber force that "can carry a big bang"—the small-packaged atomic bombs developed for tactical attack.

Twining said that under the new program for the Air Force there has been no change in the power of the retaliatory force of bombers which would unleash atomic reply to an attack on the United States.

He said this program will "accentuate and put more emphasis" on air defense. He disclosed that eight more wings of fighters (a wing of fighters is 75 planes) would be assigned to air defense of the United States.

One Of 10 Most Wanted Arrested In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—One of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives a man whose wife didn't even know he was wanted by the law, was captured without trouble last night in an industrial district of Los Angeles where he was working.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in Washington and the local FBI office announced that Alex Richard Bryant, 47, was unnamed and offered no resistance when he was arrested at a trucking company where he was employed as a truck spotter.

The FBI said Bryant, who had been living here with his wife and one child under the name of Edward F. Lawson, has spent all but seven months of his adult life behind bars or as a fugitive. The federal agents said he has a criminal history dating back to 1924.

He was serving a life sentence for armed robbery when he escaped from the Michigan State Penitentiary at Jackson Jan. 24, 1952, in a prison station wagon.

John F. Malone, Los Angeles agent in charge of the FBI office said Bryant's wife Gladys was unaware until her husband's arrest that he was an escaped criminal with a long record. She said they were married in September 1952.

FBI agents said Bryant, when arrested, commented: "They will be glad to see me back at the pen in Michigan."

Agent Malone said Bryant's criminal career started 30 years ago when he was sentenced for rape. Hoover said that before his 1952 escape he was serving a life sentence for armed robbery.

VFW Post Sifts Red Suspects, Times Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that a Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Norwalk, Conn., is forwarding to the FBI the names and addresses of Norwalk residents whose records or activities the post considers to be set up to sift suspects, communistic.

A Times story from Norwalk said it was learned yesterday that a special committee, formed of men "from all walks of life," had Charles J. Post, Connecticut state commander of the VFW and a member of the Mulvey-Tarlov-Aquino post in Norwalk, was quoted as saying the program is designed to "wake up our own people in this town."

Shortcut Found For Peace-Time Atomic Power

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Reporter
NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—A great new atomic discovery announced today may one day light your home, run refrigerators and radios with a matchbox-size furnace good for 20 years.

This discovery is a way to turn the rays from radioactive atoms directly into useful electricity.

It is a tremendous short-cut for atomic peacetime power. Until now, all atomic power plants—like the new A-sub—run on heat from splitting atoms. The heat makes steam to generate electricity, all requiring heavy equipment and shielding.

The new thing is a little battery smaller than the filter tip of a cigarette. It turns the rays coming from a few salt grains of radioactive atoms into electric current. It runs on "cheap" atoms which don't split.

The battery and its potentialities were announced today by Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America.

Its power comes from an almost invisible amount of radioactive strontium. Strontium is a natural element. Radioactive or "hot" strontium-90 is a waste product formed in atomic reactors when uranium-235 atoms split.

Strontium-90 constantly shoots out radiation. But its radiation is electrons. The new trick is that each electron coming from the strontium itself shoots out several billion electrons each second, so the multiplying gives useful current.

As yet, this tiny battery produces only enough current — a millionth of a watt — to make a whining sound in a telephone ear-piece, to which it was connected. But the battery is good for 20 years, for it takes 20 years for the strontium to lose half its power.

Baby though it is, the battery may be like Faraday's first production of electricity 120 years ago. No one then could foresee that his baby would grow into great power stations, lighted homes, auto batteries, and the energy of billions of horses, Gen. Sarnoff said.

He said the success of this atomic battery marks a "major breakthrough" toward getting electricity directly from the nuclei of atoms.

Much work remains to make the batteries more efficient. But then they could run portable radios or hearing aids, wrist-watch radios, or be nearly permanent batteries for automobiles.

Later the hot atoms may supply power for radio and telephone communication. And "someday a little box in your house might run your lights and all electrical equipment," Sarnoff said.

A secret of the battery is the transistor, tiny but potent substitute for vacuum tubes used to amplify current.

Electrons from the strontium race through a wafer of silicon, similar to regular transistors. Each speeding electron knocks loose 200, 000 electrons from atoms of silicon, and the electrons flow out as current.

The battery runs when the strontium is brought close to the silicon, stops when the strontium is pulled away. In this experimental battery, the strontium is in the tip of a rod which is pushed into contact with the water.

This battery has a lead shield because the strontium-90, is not quite pure, is still mixed with other atoms which give off X-rays. But pure strontium would need little or no shielding.

Little though it is, the stron-

Burris Attends School Meeting

FERRIDAY, Jan. 27 (Special)—Jesse S. Burris, parish superintendent of education in Concordia, has returned from Baton Rouge, where he attended a state wide meeting of parish superintendents held in the Capitol City.

After consideration and discussion over revenue to meet increased costs, the meeting approved the proposal of the Caddo Parish Association.

He said that in other business taken up by the group, work of the Public Affairs Research Council regarding the Louisiana Teacher Retirement System was discussed.

Supt. Burris declared that members of the group felt that the work being done by the research council is contrary to best interest of the teacher retirement plan. He added that a committee was appointed to discuss the plan and clarify points for the general public.

Vietminh Rebels Seize Initiative In Indo-China

SAIGON, Indochina, Jan. 28 (AP)—Vietminh rebels, seizing the initiative again in central Indochina, have launched a tough offensive on a 187-mile front and captured two French Union posts within 24 hours.

The Communist-led troops are trying to slice Indochina in two again across the narrow waist extending from Vietnam's seacoast through Laos to the Thailand border. They already have seized 65 miles of strategic colonial highway No. 9 connecting Quang Tri, on the coast, with the French-held post of Seno in western Laos.

The French high command announced last night that a Vietminh in battalion, perhaps 600 men, had captured Muong Pha Lane, on the colonial highway 40 miles east of Seno.

A French spokesman said today the Vietminh had overrun a long stretch of the highway and captured Mong Phine, French Union post 65 miles east of Seno. The garrison withdrew 25 miles farther east to Tchepone.

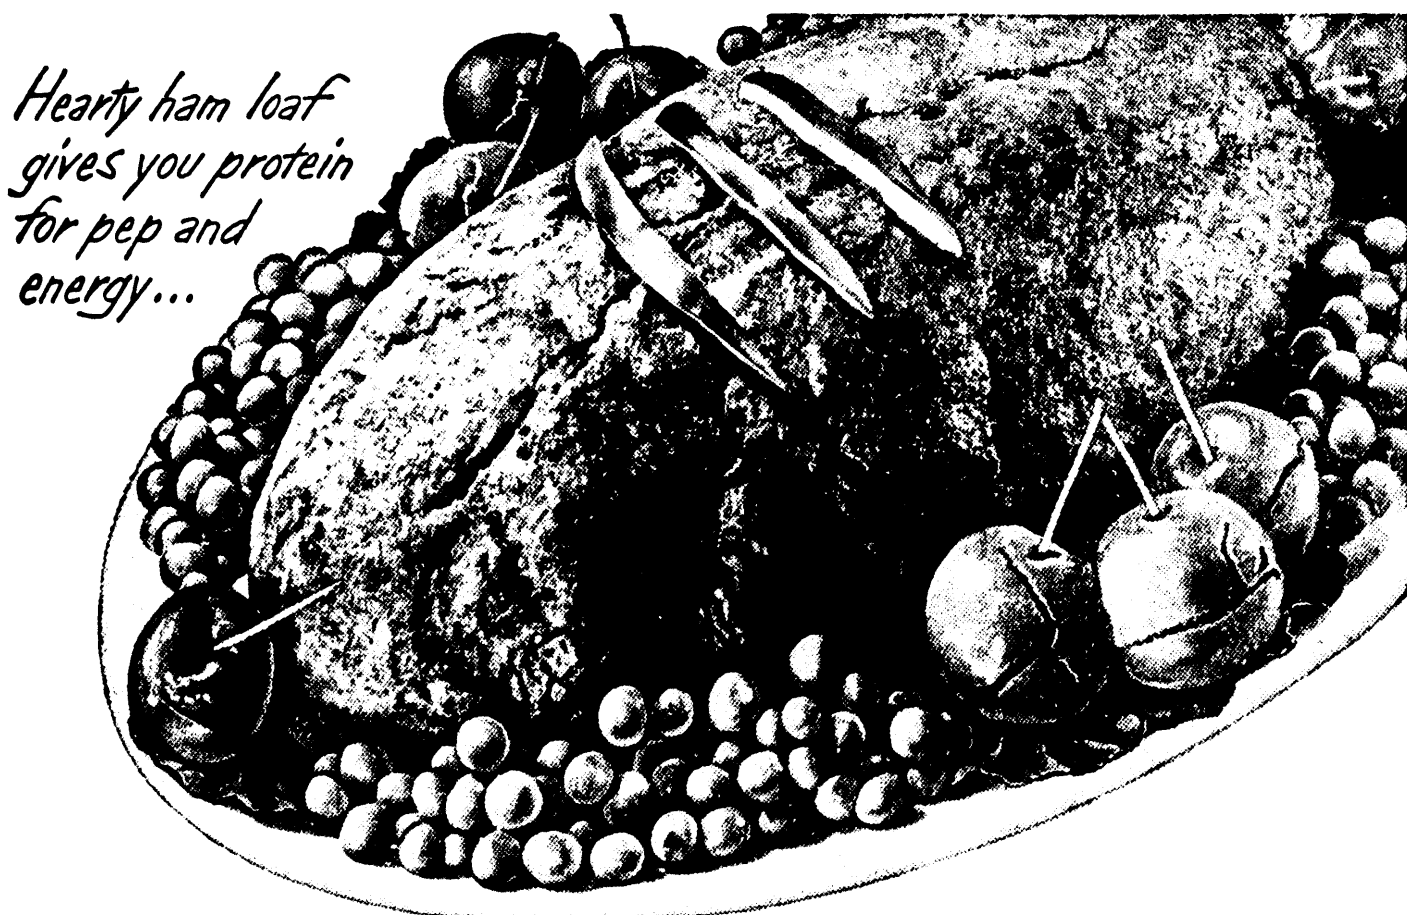

The rebels struck all the way across Indochina around Christmas to Thakhek, on the Mekong River dividing Laos and Thailand, disrupting French Union communications north and south. Union forces reoccupied Thakhek last week, thereby sealing much of the breach the rebels had cut.

The French command had not determined today the full scope and importance of the new drive. But the rebels today were harassing two more French Union posts only 14 miles west of Quang Tri.

In a counter action, a relief column from Seno fought with Vietminh elements between Seno and Muong Pha Lane. A French spokesman said the rebels suffered serious losses, while some French soldiers were wounded and several of their vehicles were burned. French losses in all the engagements of the last two days were described as light.

Meanwhile, French Army headquarters at Hanoi, in northeastern Indochina, announced a Vietnamese light battalion had killed 89 Vietminh troops and captured 80 in a sharp clash in the Ninh Binh sector of the Red River delta 55 miles southeast of Hanoi.

A communique said the Vietnamese had counterattacked after the rebels assaulted their defense posts. French tanks and foreign legionnaires helped the Vietnamese beat off the rebels, estimated at about 1,000.

Turnpike Network In Southwest Has Oklahoma's Okay

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 150-million-dollar toll road system making possible a Southwest network of turnpikes has the solid approval of Oklahoma voters.

In a special statewide election yesterday, two legislative bills authorizing construction of three turnpikes carried by a margin of about 40,000 votes. Unofficial returns from 3,183 of the state's 3,375 precincts gave on the two questions: 167,124 for to 128,150 against on one and 169,859 for to 129,287 against on the other.

Overwhelming approval from Oklahoma City and Tulsa, located on each end of the present Turner Turnpike, assured victory for the proposals.

Gov. Johnston Murray promised an immediate start on engineering and financial studies for the projects.

The proposed routes, totaling 309.7 miles, are from Tulsa northeast toward Joplin, Mo., Oklahoma City southwest toward Wichita Falls, Tex., and Oklahoma City north toward Wichita, Kan. All will connect with the Turner Turnpike.

Toll road studies are also under way in the three states which would be touched by Oklahoma's routes.

No hard-to-find red wine vinegar, brown sugar, ingredients needed for this delicious cornstarch and salt, and you are on your main course! Just pick up a set for Chinese-style spareribs, a couple of sides of good old-fashioned ribs in a sweet-and-sour sauce.

When we tried it, we put the ribs in a large oblong roasting pan in a slow oven in the late part of the afternoon. They cooked and browned beautifully while we entertained a caller at tea. Only once—halfway through the baking period—did we go back into the kitchen, and that was to turn the ribs. They were done to a turn about half an hour before supper, when we took them out of the oven. We poured off the fat in the bottom of the roasting pan, cut the ribs into easy-to-manage pieces, returned them to the pan and left them on top of the range while we made the sauce. When everyone was ready to sit down, we simply heated the ribs in the sauce.

If you like, you can bake the spareribs in the morning while you are doing clean-up chores and also make the sauce at that time. Then you can heat and serve ribs and sauce in a chafing dish, or in a good-looking sauce-pan or skillet that can go right to the table.

Steam plenty of rice to serve with this dish. There's ample sauce with the ribs, and its flavor will delight your tasters. The pineapple preserves that give this sauce its piquancy, are widely available and of excellent quality.

What else goes on this menu? As a first course, we like clear chicken soup with crisp salted crackers. But give your soup a Chinese touch: just before serving it, drop short sprays of water cress or young spinach leaves into it, bring to a boil and serve. Will the greens—don't cook them.

For a vegetable, we would choose green snap beans cooked whole only until tender—crisp and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter or margarine.

Fruit and cookies make a fine dessert and tea is, of course, the only appropriate hot beverage to serve with this Chinese-style meal.

Mandarin Spareribs

Ingredients: 3 pounds meaty fresh spareribs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar, ½ cup red wine vinegar, ¾ cup water, 1 medium-size or large green pepper, ½ cup pineapple preserves.

Method: Have meat dealer chop through bony edge of spareribs at large end. Arrange spareribs in large shallow pan. Sprinkle with salt. Roast in a slow (325°F) oven above 1¼- to 1½-hours, or until browned. Turn once, about halfway through roasting period. Cut spareribs through every other bone so they will be in easy-to-handle pieces. Meanwhile, in a saucepan blend cornstarch and sugar. Gradually stir in vinegar and water until smooth. Remove stem, seeds and pithy portion from green pepper. Cut pepper into thin strips; add to sauce. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is slightly thickened and clear. Stir in pineapple preserves. Heat thoroughly. Pour pineapple sauce over hot spareribs; and serve at once; or reheat sauce and spareribs together. Makes 4 servings.

Chicken Will Be Plentiful For February Eating

Like fried or broiled chicken? If you do, and most people do, February is a good—eating month for you. The department of agriculture in Washington, D. C., informs us that fryers and broilers will be plentiful again in February.

Other plentiful foods on the February list are:

Beef, eggs, dairy products, peanuts, peanut butter, food fats, oils, cabbage, lettuce, fresh and processed grapefruit, fresh and processed oranges, cranberry sauce, winter pears, raisins, onions, potatoes, large dry lima beans, pinto beans.

The Delaware extension service gives this recipe for barbecuing broiler chicken:

Barbecued Chicken (Serves 2-4)

One young chicken (1½ or 2½ pounds), cut in half. Use giblets and neck. For the barbecue sauce, use 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon garlic salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 medium onion, finely chopped; 1 cup catsup, ¼ cup fat, ½ cup giblet stock or water, 1-3 cup lemon juice or vinegar, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Clean and cook giblets. Prepare barbecue sauce: blend salt, pepper, paprika and sugar in saucepan. Add onion, catsup, fat and water. Heat to boiling. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. For basting during cooking, blend 1-3 cup sauce and 1-3 cup giblet stock. Set aside remaining sauce for serving with cooked chicken.

Place neck and halves of chicken in skillet or Dutch oven. Bake both sides of chicken with the diluted sauce. Cover tightly and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Baste once or twice. Remove cover, baste with diluted sauce and continue cooking uncovered until chicken is tender and browned, about 1 hour.

If a crisp skin is desired, place basted chicken skin-side-up under broiler. Broil 2 or 3 minutes. Watch it, since it browns very rapidly. Total cooking time is about 2 hours. Serve hot with barbecue sauce (undiluted) to which pan juices and chopped cooked giblets have been added.

FRENCH PLASTICS

ROCHESTER, N. Y. —UP — A large order for chemical process equipment has been placed with the Pfau & Co. here, the result of an increase in plastics production in France. Ten 2,000-gallon glass-steel polymerizers will be manufactured at $162,000 for the Pechiney Co. of Paris.

Old-Fashioned Lemon Pie Is Tops

Old-fashioned lemon flavor is what we've been hankering after, so we baked ourselves a pie. You know the kind—rich with butter, eggs and sugar, tasting of fresh lemon juice and a bit of the tangy rind. Maybe the filling is a little runnier than the cornstarch variety—but oh, the flavor!

When it comes to the meringue, we admit a modern touch. We sprinkle moist shredded coconut over the fluffy topping for a toasty taste and a glamor look.

One piece of advice about adding the meringue to the pie: place spoonfuls of it around the edge of the filling and carefully press right to the crust all the way around. Then pile the remaining meringue in the center and spread lightly to cover pie completely. When you are cutting your pie, use a wet knife and the meringue will slice easily and prettily.

Death Penalty For Twins Dandruff And Itchy Scalp

JACKSON, Miss.—Harvey S. Dennis, Leavelle Woods P.O., says: "Words cannot express my joy over the relief I got from Baker's Hair Tonic. For years I had been bothered by unsightly dandruff and itchy scalp, and had tried practically everything. Thanks to a friend I discovered Baker's Hair Tonic. No words of praise are good enough to describe Baker's."

For dandruff and itchy scalp, use Baker's Hair Tonic. For clean scalp and lustrous hair, use Baker's Shampoo. Buy them where you trade. You will like both, or the makers will refund your money.—Adv.

margarine, 1 cup sugar, 2 whole eggs, 2 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1 to 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, one 9-inch baked pastry shell, Coconut Meringue.

Method: Cream butter and sugar together in top of double boiler. Add whole eggs, egg yolks and lemon juice; mix thoroughly. Place over hot (not boiling) water; stir constantly, cook until thick. Stir in lemon rind. Chill; pour into cooled baked pastry shell. Top with Coconut Meringue; bake in hot (400°F) oven about 7 minutes or until meringue peaks are golden brown.

Coconut Meringue

Ingredients: 2 egg whites, 4 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup moist shredded coconut (cut in short lengths).

Method: Beat egg whites until frothy throughout. Gradually beat in sugar, a little at a time. Continue beating until mixture is stiff enough to hold peaks that do not curl when beater is slowly withdrawn and inverted.

Fourth Daughter Of Eddie Cantor On Sunday Show

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28 —UP—A pretty brunette is wide-eyed with excitement over her first big break—a job on the Eddie Cantor television show, and she says she won't let that laurel slip.

The fact that shapely Marilyn Cantor is Eddie's daughter even made it tough on her in some ways, she insists.

Marilyn is the only one of Eddie's famed five daughters to try show business. She and the two boys of her nightclub act applied to appear on this program like other entertainers.

"And he auditioned us!" Marilyn said. "He didn't make things any different for me."

"But now that I'm appearing on his show Sunday he's beginning to act like a parent. Oh, he's so over-anxious and nervous about it. Now he feels I'm his little girl and he wants me to make good."

Marilyn, 26, is the No. 4 daughter. The others settled down to homes, but she went to dramatic school in New York and then looked for radio jobs.

"Daddy's name was an advantage in some ways yes," she said. "It gave an entre. But then you have to make good to keep the job."

After two years as a radio actress she launched a nightclub act. Some clubs want to bill her as "Eddie Cantor's daughter," but she has a clause in her contract that prohibits that.

"It isn't that I'm being brave and saying I must do it on my own, but I feel audiences resent you if you're introduced that way," she explained. "They think that's how you got the job. Even now they whisper for the first five minutes when I come out on a nightclub floor about whether I look like my dad, or they say, 'I don't know if she's as good as he is.' They shouldn't think in terms like that—I'm a beginner."

is. They shouldn't think in terms like that—I'm a beginner."

Marilyn has had lines on Eddie's shows before, but this is the first time they've performed together.

The morning I visited her at the Cantor home Eddie rushed into the room in his bathrobe to try out a line he thought up for her routine. "This is the hammy part about this," said Cantor. "The reason you want somebody to follow in your footsteps is that it's like leaving a calling card behind."

He smiled at his daughter and added, "I think I've hurt her, though. People expect her to jump out of a trombone and fly."

COOKED PRUNES

A good breakfast is a must all year long, and particularly so during the cold winter. Hot cereal topped with a few cooked prunes makes very excellent eating. Keep a jar of cooked prunes in your refrigerator ready to use at a moment's notice.

BEEF STEW

Next time you make some old-fashioned beef stew add some California large d.y. limas instead of potatoes. Put in the dry limas at the same time you add water to the browned meat and cook about 2 hours until both the meat and the limas are tender. Add the remaining vegetables as usual.

Prune Whip Spice Cake
Sift together, 2½ cups sifted enriched flour, 1-1½ cups sugar, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg and ¼ teaspoon allspice into mixing bowl.

Add, ½ cup shortening, ½ cup prune juice, and ½ cup milk. Beat for 1½ minutes, 150 strokes per minute, until batter is well blended. (With electric mixer blend at low speed, then beat at medium speed for 1½ minutes.)

Add, 2 eggs and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat for 1½ minutes. Pour into two well-greased and lightly floured 8 or 9-inch round layer pans, at least 1¼ inches deep. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Bake the 8-inch layers for 30 to 35 minutes, 9-inch layers for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and frost.

What every good cook knows:

Just a little difference in ingredients makes a big difference in cooking results

Snowdrift is pre-whipped just a little longer than ordinary shortenings. That can make the big difference in easier, quicker cutting-in for flaky, tender pastry.

Snowdrift is just a little lighter than ordinary shortenings—and that can make a big difference in lighter, more digestible foods, whether baked or fried.

Snowdrift's ingredients are just a little costlier than any other solid shortening (yet you pay no more). That can make the big difference in better tasting foods.

No other shortening at any price is so creamy, so digestible and so light!

Adoption Ring Operations Are Revealed

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 —UP—A chance conversation may determine whether an unmarried girl contacts a welfare agency or a black market source when she discovers she is going to have a baby. Often her first decision is to leave home and go to a city where no one knows her. She can support herself for a few months, but when her condition becomes obvious a job is difficult and embarrassing. "The one big thing then is 'please help me get through this,'" said Monsignor John Kelly, co-administrator of the New York foundling hospital. "At that stage most of the girls say they don't want to keep the babies."

One well-organized adoption ring advertised discreetly in newspapers before the two key figures in the racket were arrested four years ago. Now the favorite approach is to park in a car near a recognized maternity home for unwed mothers.

As the girls approach or leave the home a well-dressed man or woman makes a tactful, sympathetic approach, offering financial help in return for the baby. Sometimes the girls feel they are paying their way by giving up their baby in return for such help. They prefer it to accepting "charity" from a welfare agency.

Other times the girl may have just been told that the agency, almost always crowded to capacity, can't help her, so she turns to the first person who offers help.

"Our cribs are booked months in advance," said one adoption service official. "If a girl gives us only a few weeks notice that she is to have a baby, we can't help her. We call another agency and make an appointment, but many times she never gets there."

More fortunate are expectant mothers like the 22-year-old nurse from the Midwest who came here like hundreds of other girls to have her baby in secret.

"We had welfare agencies in our country," said the attractive girl, who was introduced only as "Joan" at the New York foundling hospital where she was waiting for her baby. "Being a nurse, I knew about them. But everybody would know me there. I wanted to get away."

"I wanted to be independent as long as possible, but I knew there would be a time when I needed help. I was fortunate enough to get a job here as a governess, so I was able to work longer than girls in office jobs."

"My employer suggested I contact Catholic charities, and they arranged for me to come here to the hospital a month before my baby was due."

She told the hospital authorities she wanted to put her baby up for adoption, but such agencies do not let a girl make the final decision until after her baby is born. "It is better for my baby to have a mother and a father," she explained. "I don't want my parents to know about the baby, and I have no place to take care of it."

She didn't change her mind after her baby, a girl, was born a few days later.

"She is a beautiful girl," Joan said proudly just before she left to go back to her home town. "Please believe me...it isn't easy to give her up. If there was any other way, I wouldn't do it."

Wheeler said that he could not estimate at this time the actual number of increase in personnel, however.

The announcement of a $5 million dollar expansion program calls for an increase in facilities for the production of petrochemicals never before available to industry in volume, it was announced yesterday by J. Albert Woods, president, following approval of the project by the board of directors.

The nitroparaffins represent an entirely new field of organic chemistry," Mr. Woods said. "The great potential of these chemicals lies in their remarkable and versatile abilities as raw materials for producing other chemicals."

In addition to the new construction, the company's existing nitroparaffins operation at Peoria, Ill., will be enlarged. The cost of the expansion, estimated at five million dollars, will be financed from current funds. Plant design and engineering is being handled by the company's research, development and engineering division. Full scale production is scheduled for the last quarter of 1955.

Some of the industries in which the nitroparaffins and derivatives have found successful applications are: chemical manufacturing, agriculture, textiles, rubber products, petroleum, automotive, paints, varnishes, lacquers, printing, plastics and resins, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals, food, electrical equipment, aluminum and light metals, chemical specialties and military uses.

"The construction of full scale nitroparaffins facilities is another step in Commercial Solvents' long term petrochemicals development program," Mr. Woods pointed out. "We have recently completed a $20 million expansion doubling our methanol, ammonia and nitric acid capacity." The company's nitroparaffins expansion will utilize these raw materials.

The basic products are nitromethane, nitroethane, 1-nitropropane, 2-nitropropane, and nitrobutane. The derivatives include the amino-hydroxy compounds and the hydroxylamine salts, all of which have proved their usefulness in many chemical applications.

The patented processes on which the project is based were developed in Commercial Solvents' research laboratories from initial research carried out by the Purdue Research Foundation. The nitroparaffins have been under study by

Solvents Plant Expects Boost In Employment

Large-scale facilities at the Commercial Solvents Corporation plant in Sterling for the production of "nitro-paraffins" will "certainly bring about an increase in personnel at the plant," J. E. Echard, plant manager, said last night.

The Annual Polio Benefit Dance has been scheduled for this coming Saturday night, at the Frances Hotel Roof beginning at 8 p.m.

Promising to be one of the biggest social events ever to be held in the Twin-Cities, S. E. "Shadow" Holloway, chairman of the drive, stated, "There will be a fine show along with the dance and plenty of entertainment."

Mei Spain and his orchestra will be on hand to provide music and song for all. Spain, doubling as maestro and crooner, said his music makers will be composed of 14 "slow" and "fast" musicians. "Outstanding among this group is Truman McCrea, former trombone player who has made an outstanding switch to the trumpet."

A large crowd is expected to attend the dance. Holloway emphasized that this is to be an "informal affair." He said, "be sure to come early so that you can obtain a table for your party. There is no need to call in for reservations—just come on."

Houses In Huttig Will Be Sold By Olin Industries

HUTTIG, Ark., Jan. 28 — The Forrest Products Division, Olin Industries, Inc., announced today that the company houses at its Huttig, Arkansas sawmill town are being offered for sale to residents who wish to purchase them. The announcement was made by Robert H. Evans, general manager of the Forest Products Division.

To encourage home ownership, the company is offering most of the houses for sale at 70 per cent of the appraised value. Appraisals were made by M. E. Hurlbut, well-known Shreveport realtor and appraiser.

For about 85 per cent of the houses only 10 percent of the appraised value is required for the down payment. The Commercial National Bank of Shreveport has arranged for 10 year mortgages for purchasers.

Residents of Huttig will be given a reasonable period of time to make their decision to purchase. Those wishing to build their own home may purchase building lots from the company on similar terms. Evans said that a small proportion of the Huttig houses are being retained by the company in areas where it anticipates future development of the town or expansion of its own operations.

The sale of the little Huttig houses comes close to the 50th anniversary of the founding of the town, which is the location of one of Olin's principal sawmills. Huttig has a population of about 1,000.

Olin is spending a substantial amount in the rehabilitation of its Huttig sawmill which will make it one of the most modern in the south, Evans stated, and has contributed toward a program to improve the community itself.

The Huttig sawmill, houses and nearby timberlands formerly were owned by Frost Lumber Industries, Incorporated and were a part of the 450,000 acres of timberland and various properties and allied enterprises in the states of Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas acquired by Olin Industries two years ago.

The annual Monroe Kiwanis Club minstrel show will be held April 22 and 23 at Neville High School, Vernon McCoy, chairman of the minstrel group, announced at the club's regular weekly meeting yesterday at the Virginia Hotel.

Proceeds from the show are used by the club to better conditions for underprivileged children. A large crowd is expected to be on hand for each performance.

Guest speaker at yesterday's meeting was Ouachita Parish Sheriff Bailey Grant, who told the members of the training given at the FBI National Academy in Washington, D. C. Grant highly praised the Academy and its instructors.

He also pointed out that the course of instruction at the Academy covers all phases of police work, including administration and public relations.

Constitutional Revision Will Be Discussed On Jaycee Program Here

"Should Our State Constitution Be Revised?" has been selected for the coming topic on the Jaycee TV Roundtable tonight at 8 p.m. over a local television station.

Jake Ussery, chairman of the Jaycee TV Roundtable, reported that three prominent attorneys from this area will air their views on the question.

Fred Hudson, Jr., prominent Monroe attorney, and recently appointed by Louisiana State Bar Association as one of the members to study the question of constitutional revision, will present an overall picture on the question.

Journeymen from Ruston to take part in the television program will be Reagan Madden, district attorney for Lincoln Parish. He is reportedly against a revision of the present state constitution.

Vice-president of the Louisiana State Bar Association, Thomas Leigh of Monroe will present his views why there should be revisions in the present constitution.

Walter Schubert has been named moderator for the occasion.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

What Is A Producer?

HOLLYWOOD, January 28.—No one, as far as records reveal, has ever deliberately set out, sound of mind and body, to become a film producer. I have asked a hundred questions of as many producers over the years, and all have told me it just "happened" to them. I have gained the impression that in an industry devoted to entertainment the producer has undisputed claim to the least entertaining job of all. Outside film circles the function of a producer is virtually unknown. Those familiar film credits "Gowns designed by..." and "Directed by..." or "Sets by..." are self-explanatory. The lines "Produced by..." mean less to the average person than last week's headlines to the average audience.

So, just what is a producer? I'll cite Jack Cummings as my example. Jack has been producing for nearly 20 years at the MGM studios and is one of Hollywood's "unknown" men, whose contributions are only briefly hinted in one line on the screen. But Jack was willing to talk.

"Picture making," he says, "is very much like football. It calls for teamwork, with one man calling the plays, coordinating the many different talents and pointing them towards a common goal. The producer is responsible for bringing the story to the screen, during the course of which he works with and coordinates the creative effort of hundreds of artists and technicians. He begins to function when the studio assigns him a story or approves an idea of his own. Then again all other details of development, all under his supervision."

What Cummings told me is the story of others in his particular field, so next time you see your favorite movie, remember that the producer of it was the key genius in its production.

Preview Nights: "The Long, Long Trailer," starring Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, is the story of a hectic honeymoon aboard a trailer—a sort of frenzied honeymoon, beset by many mishaps. But these, some reaching calamity proportions, are the springboard for scenes of outbursts of laughter. Chipping in with Arnaz and Miss Ball to complete the backgrounds of amusement are Marjorie Main and Keenan Wynn and Gladys Hurlbut. The viewer scarcely thinks of plot. The episodes just happen. You laugh, and go from there to the next funny day on their own. I mean, it is not tied in with any exploits of the young man's famous father, Will, Jr., is a cowpoke who is planning to be a lawyer, and in developing the yarn the studio comes up with an exciting, though different western. Nancy Olson is the girl, and others supporting Rogers are Lon Chaney, Anthony Caruso and Wallace Ford. There are some novel twists in the plot, and after some digression from the main aims of our hero, he gets back in the groove and carries on to a happy finish. A stage robbery turns him off the track. Michael, in a finished job in action, supplemented by lots of humor, "Jubilee Trail" mixes tragedy and drama to give Vera Ralston, Joan Leslie and Forrest Tucker much to do in the way of acting and carrying the story to an exciting finish. It is a Republic picture, produced and directed by Joseph Kane based on the novel by Gwen Bristow. Action begins in New York, and reaches a highpoint in New Orleans where our characters pause on their way to California. John Russell, Ray Middleton, Pat O'Brien and the giant, Buddy Baer, have important roles. Vera Ralston is the woman accused of murder, and around this act revolves our story. It generates enough suspense to hold an audience during its 102 minutes of running time. "It Should Happen to You" is a class of comedy one might label hilarious, and the picture stars Judy Holliday, Peter Lawford, Jack Lemmon and Michael O'Shea. George Cukor directed, and he has succeeded in giving us a rollicking round of laughter which will guarantee a pleasant visit to your favorite theater. Garth Kanin wrote the screenplay, and the funspots intended have been developed to a high degree by Cukor, Miss Holliday, Lawford and others of the cast, catching the spirit of the piece, have done their assignments so well they come out of it wearing added stardust. I'll not waste the plot structure, but the idea around which the picture is built is novel indeed. I think you'll enjoy this Columbia production.

Fluoridation

Many Towns Have Added Fluoride

(The widespread acceptance of controlled water fluoridation as a sound public health measure for reducing tooth decay by as much as 65 per cent is discussed in this eighth in a series of articles published by the News-Star in cooperation with the State Health Department. This authoritative series is designed to bring the facts about fluoridation to the people of Monroe.)

Hundreds of communities throughout the country have decided that good teeth should be a child's birthright.

There are the more than 800 towns and cities now adding fluoride in their drinking water supplies. Children who drink the fluoridated water from birth throughout the years their second teeth are forming will grow up with two-thirds less tooth decay than their parents have.

Grand Rapids, Mich., first city to add fluoride to its water, was soon followed by Newburgh, N. Y.; Sheboygan, Wis.; Lewistown, Idaho; Brantford, Ontario; and Marshall, Tex. All six communities have been fluoridating for seven or eight years, and in each case the results have been essentially the same.

After only two years of fluoridation, six-year-olds in Marshall, already had 47 per cent less tooth decay than kids the same age had before fluoridation. By 1951, seven years after fluoridation, Newburgh discovered that decay rates had dropped 77 per cent among its six-year-old children.

The same year, Muskegon, Mich., decided to adopt fluoridation and stop acting as a control city in the Grand Rapids fluoridation study. The reason? Dental scientists had announced that six-year-olds in Muskegon had nearly four times as many cavities as the same age group had in Grand Rapids, where fluoridation had been in effect for six years.

Fifteen years ago, Aberdeen, S. D., with a low tooth decay rate due to the natural fluoride content of its drinking water, switched to a fluoride-free water supply. Dental decay increased to the point where local dentists couldn't even begin to handle it, and it was the dentists themselves who in 1950 persuaded Aberdeen to adopt controlled water fluoridation.

Communities which have officially approved fluoridation range in size from Philadelphia, the nation's second largest city, to little places of a hundred or so. In Wisconsin more than 80 per cent of the urban population live in communities which have begun to add fluorides to their drinking water, or are in the process of installing the necessary equipment.

One of the smallest communities in the United States adding fluoride to its water is Norwood Village, near Seattle, Wash. This town of 150 persons estimates the cost of sodium fluoride at two cents a month per family. It's 41 families assessed themselves $12.50 each to cover the cost of the original equipment. (Tomorrow: How the fluoride is added to water supplies.)

Turkey In Corn-Meal Shells Is Dish For Party Serving

Turkey a la King served in crisp corn-meal shells is a dish to base a party on. Mary and Bruce Le-Grande of Kent, Ohio, who enjoy entertaining, say it's their best party feature and give us their own private recipe.

The dainty shells of corn-meal pastry look professional yet are truly easy to duplicate. Form the corn-meal pastry over the backs of muffin cups or custard cups. The tarts can be baked the day before and reheated for a few minutes before serving with the hot filling.

Turkey Tarts
(Makes 6 tarts)
Corn-Meal Tart Shells: One and one half cups sifted enriched flour, 1/2 cup enriched corn meal, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon caraway seed (optional), 1/2 cup shortening, one-third cup water.

Sift together flour, corn meal, salt and baking powder. Add caraway seed if desired. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add water a little at a time, until dough will just hold together. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently a few seconds. Roll dough out to form a rectangle 9 x 18 inches. Cut into six 4 1/2-inch squares. Shape squares over bottom of muffin or custard cups. Prick entire surface of each with a fork. Cut the leftover strip of dough into 6 little turkeys with a floured turkey cutter. Use whole cloves for eyes. Place turkeys on a cookie sheet. Bake tarts and turkeys in hot oven (450 degrees F.). The turkeys will be baked in 9 to 10 minutes, the tarts in 12 to 15. Turkey a la King: Three-quarters cup sliced mushrooms, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 cups milk, 2 1/2 to 3 cups cut-up cooked turkey, 1/4 cup chopped pimiento.

Brown mushrooms and green pepper in butter in a frying pan. Add flour and seasonings, blending well. Add milk slowly, mixing until well combined. Cook over low heat until the mixture is thickened. Stir in turkey and pimiento. Continue cooking for several minutes. Fill shells with hot turkey a la King mixture and decorate each with a pastry turkey perched on the top.

MARSHMALLOW DRESSING
Try this honey marshmallow dressing on your favorite fruit salad. Combine 1 beaten egg yolk with 1/4 cup honey, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and a dash salt. Cook over hot water until thick. Then add 4 cut-up marshmallows and stir until melted. Remove from heat and chill. Before serving fold in 1/2 cup whipped cream.

CHOPPED ALMONDS
Put your electric blender to use for chopping jobs. It's a quick way to chop both almonds and walnuts. The length of time it takes depends on how fine or coarse you want the nuts to be.

OLIN INDUSTRIES, INC. SALUTES THE PEOPLE OF HUTTIG, ARKANSAS

On this occasion when home ownership is about to become a reality, Olin Industries extends warm greetings to the citizens of Huttig with the hope that they will take advantage of the attractive terms offered them to become owners of their own homes

OLIN HAILS HUTTIG FOR - - -

1. Its 50 year history as a thriving community.
2. Its fine year round climate and close-to-nature recreation which make it an excellent place to work and live.
3. Its 1,000 self-respecting, industrious citizens.
4. Its up-to-date school system, its improving community facilities, its paved road connections to El Dorado and Monroe.
5. Its $1,000,000 annual payroll supported by perpetual timber resources and one of the South's most modern sawmills.
6. Its position as an important plant city in the Olin Industry organization.
7. Its record of harmonious relations between labor and management based on mutual good will and respect.

AND SOON - -

8. Its Transformation into a community of individual home owners with whom Olin Industries is proud to join hands in making Huttig a better place to live and a better place to work.
